CONGRESS ADOPTS SHOALS REPORTS

WONDER WHOSE HAND FRAMED VETO FOR CAL

Prospects Are That True Authorship of Farm Bill Message Will Stay Secret

NEW WORDS, PHRASES

However, President Favors Strong Words and Stands Behind Whole Letter

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1928 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Congress was guessing Friday as to the true authorship of the veto message of President Coolidge on the McNary-Haugen bill with the prospects that it will remain a well guarded secret.

Long messages on departmental subjects are usually drafted as a result of memoranda submitted by department heads. Last year both Secretaries Jardine and Hoover contributed to the document which the president assembled and rewrote. Somewhat the same procedure is assumed to have been followed this year because the message bristles with words and phrases not found in other documents which President Coolidge has either transmitted to congress or delivered in public addresses.

Mr. Coolidge, of course, stands for every word of the veto message and the significance of the fact that he adopted the language of some of the memoranda submitted to him is that he liked the strong terms and phrases and unhesitatingly put his signature beneath them.

STRONGLY OPPOSED

Mr. Coolidge has shown not merely a defiance of political opponents but he feels so firmly that the McNary-Haugen bill is an economic fallacy that he used all the force he could command to give the country his impressions of the measure.

As a consequence of the veto, it is apparent that not enough votes can be mustered to make the measure a law against presidential objection. It makes difficult any statement from even the democratic nominee for the presidency that he would sign a bill which an attorney-general of the United States has declared to be in his judgment unconstitutional. Certainly Governor Smith, who expects to derive considerable support from the voters of conservative thinking, will be embarrassed if he says he would accept the McNary-Haugen bill, though to be sure such a step would mean votes for him in the western states.

Mr. Coolidge has unquestionably affected in a very vital sense the republican race. Secretary Hoover not only stands with the president on other major policies but there is reason to believe he seconds every one of the objections to the McNary-Haugen bill enumerated in the president's message.

This leaves the field to Governor Lowden so far as favoring the McNary-Haugen bill is concerned. All other Republican candidates doubtless will stand with the president, though here and there favorite sons will not. Vice-President Dawes has never expressed himself in detail on the issue and it is considered doubtful whether he would favor the McNary-Haugen bill in the form in which it was submitted to the president for action.

STRONGER IN EAST

Politically, the message strengthens Mr. Coolidge with the eastern conservatives and with the business interests which have all along been clamoring for an opportunity to draft him. On the record of the present administration it is now apparent that only two men can run—Secretary Hoover and President Coolidge. And the practical question which the politicians must answer at Kansas City is whether they want to dump the Coolidge record and name an anti-Coolidge man who in effect would repudiate the present administration or whether in their judgment Mr. Coolidge or Mr. Hoover can make the more effective campaign against Governor Smith and in defense of the Republican administration.

SAY PLANES USEFUL FOR FOREST RANGING

Ashland—(AP)—Value of airplanes in Wisconsin to patrol northern forests areas and locate fires before they are beyond control was emphasized by Governor Fred R Zimmerman in a speech here Thursday night.

"I believe several planes in Wisconsin, particularly in the northern area, could locate forest fires quickly. From a plane you can see 20 or 30 miles on a clear day. One or two planes could patrol the entire state and might pay for themselves a dozen times over."

NO EXPLANATION FOR FLEXNER RESIGNATION

New York—The reason for the resignation of Dr. Abraham Flexner as director of the studies and medical education of the general education board, a Rockefeller foundation with which he had been connected for 15 years, remained unexplained Friday.

The board of trustees in announcing his resignation, said it was accepted with great regret, but no reason was given.

PROGRESSIVES CONTROL STATE G. O. P.

BREAKS CUSTOM

For the first time in 83 years of his active career as a boxer, wrestler, actor and physical culturist, William Muldoon, Old Ironsides of the New York States Athletic commission, is spending his birthday in bed. He fell from a raised platform recently. He usually rises at 6 on his birthday, exercises two hours and after breakfast rides horseback for three hours.

FRIENDS PUSH TEXAS LEADER AS CANDIDATE

Houston Democratic Publisher May Get State's 40 Votes at Convention

Huntesville, Tex —(AP)— A Texas sombrero belonging to Jesse H. Jones, millionaire Houston publisher and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, has been thrown into the presidential arena with its owner making no immediate effort to reclaim it.

While suggestions were made by friends of the publisher that he become a candidate for president shortly after he was credited with bringing the Democratic national convention to Houston, the movement took definite shape Thursday when his admirers interpreted a resolution adopted at the state convention of the party to mean that he had been indorsed for the nomination.

The resolution as interpreted by W. L. Dean, chairman, of the state convention at his home here would make support of Mr. Jones mandatory on the Texas delegation, which will have 40 votes at Houston instructed to work for a dry platform plank and presidential nominee in sympathy with it.

Dean, author of the state prohibition law, said that Mr. Jones was in full sympathy with the prohibition principles enunciated in the platform.

UPHOLD CHASE IN RULING ON PLEDGE PLANS

Resolution Pledging Support to National Party Nominees Ruled Out of Order

Madison—(AP)—Alternates for delegates to the Republican national convention at Kansas City were approved by the state central committee in a brief session Friday, in which Progressives demonstrated their control in the only test of strength with conservatives.

They upheld State Senator John B. Chase, of Oconto, in ruling out of order, a resolution introduced by Ed Kelley of Manitowoc which would have pledged the committee to support the platform and nominees of the National Republican convention. The Progressives upheld Chase by a narrow margin of two votes.

Recommendations of the 17 Progressive delegates and eight of nine Conservative Republican delegates comprising the state's representation to the Kansas City convention were accepted without question. Stephen Bolles, editor of the Janesville Gazette was named as the alternate to Senator George Hull, Whitewater, whose illness prevented his naming his alternate. It became known before the half hour session that the name of John E. Harris of Elkhorn was to be proposed but his name was not submitted and a possible fight in committee was avoided.

The alternates will go to the convention at Kansas City June 12 to sit as occasion arises as substitutes for the delegates elected in April.

Frank W. Kuehl, former secretary to Senator Blaine when he was governor, is his alternate delegate at large. Alternates of the three other delegates at large are Mrs. Elizabeth McCormick, Superior, former president of the Wisconsin Teachers association for Senator LaFollette; Herman L. Ekern, former attorney general, for Mrs. Rose Johnson, of Fredericc and Eugene E. Pantzer, Sheboygan, for Walter J. Kohler, of Kohler.

Alternates for district delegates include: Ninth district: William C. Sullivan, Kaukauna, delegate. Hugo F. Muehrcke, Oconto, alternate; Arthur M. Sells, Florence, delegate. Olga H. Lundgren, Marinette, alternate.

WAIT ANXIOUSLY FOR ARRIVAL OF DIRIGIBLE

King's Bay, Spitzbergen —(AP)— A strong southeast wind was blowing at Kings Bay Friday morning and watchers awaiting the return of the dirigible Italia from her successful flight to the North pole expected that there would be some difficulty in making a landing.

Latest advices from the Italia said that the airship has been making half speed against a strong southeast wind which has been making her return to Spitzbergen more difficult and slower than her 19½ hour flight to the pole.

The dirigible was expected about noon Friday, but at 11:30 had not put in an appearance, 33 hours from the time that she started from the pole.

Thursday the ship had to work her three motors at full speed in order to force her way along through the wind.

Spends Birthday In Bed First Time In 83 Years

New York—(AP) — Friday, for the first time in 83 years, William Muldoon, Old Ironsides of the New York State Athletic commission, is spending his birthday in bed.

Instead of rising at 6, exercising strenuously for two hours, breakfasting at 8 and then riding horseback for three hours more the boxer, wrestler, Shakespearean actor and physical culturist is in his room at the hygenic institute near White Plains, N. Y., cut off from friends, telephone and newspapers.

On May 10 he fell 15 feet from a raised platform to the ground, bumping the back of his head and injuring ribs on his left side. An old touch of neuritis returned and his doctor put him to bed ordering absolute quiet for the old warrior.

"I have no message," he told a visitor, "and I am still of the opinion that one of the greatest of all virtues is patience, for those who are growing old. There is nothing so bad as an impatient, bad-tempered old person. They are unhappy themselves, and they make those about them unhappy."

What, asks the New York Herald-Tribune, will the "professor," the old Roman, the iron duke, the solid man—he is given all those titles—be thinking of Friday as he lies on his bed of pain, silent and alone?

Gene Tunney, perhaps. Fine lad, Gene. Clean and square and brave. Just the kind of fellow the "professor" would like to see more of in the boxing business. He and Gene, who is 30 Friday, spent their birthday together last year, the "professor" riding twelve miles through a drizzling rain on horseback to have dinner with Gene at the Biltmore.

Perhaps he'll be thinking of the old days when he was a champion himself—champion of the world at Graeco-Roman wrestling. Took the title from Clarence Whistler and held it several years, retiring undefeated.

Those were the days—four years of service, from 16 to 20, with the Army of the Potomac — "Hashslinger" in cheap restaurants and bouncer in dance halls. Six years on the New York police force, then the wrestling and after that the fighters—teaching them, training them, keeping them from drinking themselves to death—brave, glorious old days.

Ah, those fighters. The "professor's" eyes gleam. All champions that he handled. Jack Dempsey the Nonpareil, Kid McCoy, now in San Quentin prison. And the greatest day of all in 1889 when John L Sullivan broke nearly all of Jake Kilrain's ribs but not his heart.

He'll probably be remembering when he played Charles the wrestler in "As You Like It," being thrown every night. Trooping as Spartacus the gladiator—John Drew, Mme. Modjeska, Rose Coghlan, McCullough. Georgia Drew handing him a bundle to hold one night in the wings at St. Louis and the bundle the infant, Ethel Barrymore. Glorious nights, those.

But his friends say it will be only a little while till the "professor" is back in his gymnasium again.

WARNED BY BOOTLEGGERS

Lewis W. Powell (inset) district attorney for Kenosha-co, received a telephone warning that Chicago bootleggers planned to 'get' him, he revealed Thursday.

The warning given by an unidentified woman who phoned the Powell home, was transmitted to him through Miss Hazel Hurley, a roomer at the house, who answered the telephone.

A woman' voice came over the wires saying that she had "just overheard a couple of Chicago bootleggers planning to kill Mr. Powell. You had better tell him to leave town."

When Miss Hurley asked who was calling, the woman hung up. Efforts to trace the call were unsuccessful.

Powell padlocked 30 saloons and roadhouses in five months and then his home was bombed. The picture shows how the side of the house was wrecked by dynamite. He and his four children, sleeping in the home at the time, were not hurt.

Accuse French Deputies Of Plot To Free Alsace

Colmar, France—(AP)—Two recently elected deputies, Dr. Eugene Ricklin and M. Roose, Friday stood convicted of having plotted against the state as participants in an autonomist movement aimed at making Alsace and Lorraine into a separate and independent republic.

Tumult greeted the conviction of the deputies and two other autonomist leaders, Schall and Fasshauser. They were each sentenced to one year imprisonment and five years banishment.

There would doubtless have been a riot if gendarmes had not hurried into court and a military force been ready to control the crowd outside. Fists flew between French and Alsatian partisans. Gendarmes rushing in between them to break up the fighting often emerged with bleeding noses.

The bitterness of the autonomists was unrestrained. Their cries of "Vive Alsace!" were met with cries of "Vive France!"

Eleven defendants were acquitted. Those acquitted passed in line before the convicted leaders and embraced them. The crowd in the court room swept through the strong guard to salute the autonomists.

Later there were monster demonstrations of the Alsatian spirit when thousands roared the Alsatian hymn:

"O! Strasbourg! O! Strasbourg!
"You're a wonderful, beautiful city!
"O! Strasbourg! O! Strasbourg."

It was hours before the crowds filtered to their homes and complete quiet was restored.

The autonomist movement which started about ten years ago in the provinces which France regained from Germany during the war, recently grew to such serious proportions that the government was forced to act drastically and arrested fifteen alleged leaders bringing them to trial on May 1.

Dr. Richlin was charged with being head of the movement. He was once a member of the German Reichstag and is a man of conspicuous ability.

Boy, 6, Hit By Car, Is Near Death

Lawrence, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Enger, 534 N. Garfield-st, is near death in St. Elizabeth hospital from injuries received when he was knocked to the pavement by a truck owned by the George Schiedermayer and Sons Hardware company, 623 W. College-ave, and driven by Clemence Noworatzky, 839 W. Spencer-st.

The accident occurred about 11:15 Friday morning at the corner of N. Richmond and W. Lorain-sts. The boy was backing across Richmond-st on the Lorain-st crossing and he backed into the truck. The bumper knocked him to the pavement and he rolled beneath the car.

The boy was taken to a doctor's office by Louis Hintz, 1538 W Spencer-st, and later was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital by Police Chief George T. Prim and Officer Carl Radtke in the police car.

Attending physicians said Friday afternoon the youngster had a chance to recover but that his condition was grave. He suffered severe internal injuries and contusions and abrasions about the body.

MADISON MAN KILLED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

Madison—(AP)— Thomas Haper, 23 was killed Thursday night when a gravel truck used in road construction work, toppled off the road and crashed against a telegraph pole. Haper's head was crushed.

It's Rather Foolish—

To be wasting energy and good shoe leather running around trying to locate that apartment, house or garage you wish to rent.

It's especially foolish when so many fine properties are offered for rent in our Classified Section each day—

Look them over NOW. It will save you much time, trouble, expense and annoyance.

SENATE TAKES UP REDUCTION BILL REPORTS

Desire to Restrict Debate to Make Sure Measure Will Not Be Squeezed Out

Washington—(AP)— The conference report on the $222,000,000 compromise tax reduction bill was taken up in the senate Friday, Senator Smoot of Utah, calling for a vote on his proposal to strike the provision for public inspection of income tax returns immediately after the Muscle Shoals filibuster had been broken.

Unwilling to take any chances on squeezing out the bill in the closing hour jam, Senate leaders circulated a cloture petition during the filibuster with a view to restricting debate when they get the measure before the senate.

Patching up their differences after two days of steady confinement over the senate $205,000,000 bill and the house $230,000,000 measure, the conferees late Thursday put the revenue curtailing legislation in shape for a quick vote by the house. Then the senate will act and the bill will be ready for President Coolidge.

Although well beyond the $200,000,000 limitation set by Persident Coolidge and Secretary Mellon, the measure is so far under the reduction voted by the house that executive approval is regarded as almost certain.

One provisions which the conferees could not agree upon was the senate proposal opening income tax returns to public inspection. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, manager of the conference, was requested to seek another vote on this proposition in the senate, which adopted it 27 to 19.

Winning their first cut in taxes in the last three revenue bills, corporations under the present compromise agreement, would benefit to the extent of $135,450,000 by virtue of the reduction in the corporation levy from 13½ per cent and an increase from $2,000 to $3,000 in their exemptions.

The only relief afforded individual taxpayers is an increase from $20,000 to $30,000 in the amount of income on which the "credit for earned income" may be taken. The senate provision for downward revision of the surtax rates applying on individual incomes over $20,000 was lost in the conference.

200 FAMILIES HURT BY SEVERE STORMS

More Than $50,000 Loss to Crops and Property in Alabama

Birmingham, Ala. — (AP)— Approximately 200 families have been left destitute as a result of a terrific hailstorm which swept parts of west Central Alabama.

Loss to crops and property was estimated Friday at more than $500,000. Approximately 600 square miles of farm land was practically laid waste by the storm of Tuesday, the extent of which was revealed only Friday. It was estimated that 16,000 acres of cotton and 6,000 acres of corn were ruined.

PLYMOUTH MAN HEADS NATIONAL CHEESE BODY

Milwaukee —(AP)— J. H. Wheeler of Plymouth was reelected president of the National Cheese Institute at its annual meeting here Thursday.

A committee on grading of cheese recommended that cheese containing more than 39 per cent moisture and all cheese deficient in butterfat be classified by state graders as adulterated products and that a certain whole milk cheese," testing 39 per cent or more, be recognized by a state trademark. The recommendations were accepted.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen—(AP)—Fighting a thick fog and strong southwest wind, the dirigible Italia, due at her Kings Bay base from her successful flight to the North pole Thursday at midnight, was not expected here, even in the best circumstances until late Friday afternoon.

At 4 o'clock, the base ship Citta di Milano had lost contact with the Italia and the heavy fog which had shut down prevented any visual observations being made.

Philadelphia —(AP)— The Yankees defeated the Athletics 4 to 2 here Friday in the first game of their second successive double header. Pennock outpitched Ehmke and Johnson, who followed him. Lou Gehrig hit his eighth home run of the season with two out and two on in the sixth.

MEXICAN FLYER ENDS LONG NON-STOP FLIGHT

Mexico City—(AP)—Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexican army aviator, arrived in his monoplane, "The Mexico Excelsior" from San Diego, Calif., at 12:06 Friday afternoon landing at Valbuena air field, in the plane similar to the Spirit of St. Louis.

Captain Carranza, one of the foremost pilots of the southern republic, left here at 3:15 Thursday afternoon with the announcement he expected to have breakfast Friday in Mexico City. An hour and a half after his takeoff, he was sighted over Calexico, Cal.

His plane carried 300 gallons of gasoline and his food supply consisted of a few sandwiches, a bottle of coffee and some water. The route to the Mexican capital calls for flying over long stretches of desert country and numerous mountain ranges, and is described by aviators as one of the most treacherous air courses on the continent.

AUSTRIA FEARS RIOTING WILL AROUSE ITALY

Nationalist Students Lead Van in Tearing Down Italian Flag at Consulate

BULLETIN

Vienna—(AP)—To forestall any possible protest from Premier Mussolini over the incident at Innsbruck Thursday night when the Italian flag was torn down from the Italian consulate by nationalist students, the Austrian government has tendered formal apologies to the Italian charge d'affaires at Vienna.

Vienna, Austria—(AP)—The Austrian cabinet Friday feared that serious rioting which occurred around the Italian consulate at Innsbruck in the Austrian Tyrol would bring a recrudescence of official Italian wrath against Austria.

The Italian flag, which was flying from the consulate in honor of Italy's declaration of war against Austria 13 years ago precipitated the outbreak. During a riotous demonstration the flag was torn down and cast into the streets. Commandatore Riccardi, Italian consul general, was hooted and menaced.

Police reinforcements and soldiers beat back the mob. Many women and children were hurt and many men were clubbed. The flag was promptly restored and the civic authorities hastened to apologize for the insult. Steps were taken to bring those guilty to punishment and eight alleged ring leaders were arrested.

SOLDIERS SALUTE FLAG

Commandatore Riccardi compelled the governor to order a squad of soldiers from the Austrian army to march past the consulate and salute the Italian emblem. This was done and a strong guard was placed about the building and officials thought that the disorders were ended.

The Austrian governor posted a bulletin at the city hall declaring the attack was "senseless" and "futile." This licensed nationalist students, who had been in the van of the first demonstration, They returned to the consulate and tried to reach the flag again. As they struggled toward the flag they shouted this rallying cry:

"Down with our cowardly government. It is trying to kill our national pride."

The bayonets of the soldiers held the rioters at bay. As they grew more menacing police and soldiers charged and drove them down side streets. There the lines held until after dark when a heavy rain dispersed the mob.

A few months ago Austria made a world wide protest against alleged unfavorable treatment of Austrians and Germans in the Italian Tyrol. Premier Mussolini made this the occasion of a strong denunciation of Austria for attempting to interfere with an affair which concerned Italy alone. He threatened to take severe steps against Austria if the matter were carried farther.

CHINESE ARMIES IN CLOSE CONTACT

Civil Enemies Battle Along 100-mile Front Across Railroads

Hongkong—(AP) — Along a line of some 100 miles cutting across two vital railroads 100 miles to the south of Peking, the Northern and Southern (Nationalist) armies were in contact Friday. The front extended from Tingchow on the Peking-Hankow railroad, eastward through Hokientu to Tsangchow, on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

The Japanese sent a large force of troops including an infantry regiment and an artillery brigade to Chinchowful, Manchuria, to protect the entrance to that province in which Japan has announced the Northerners and Southerners shall not carry on their hostilities.

Other troops were diverted from Tsintao to Tientsin, about 60 miles north of the line of battle.

HOUSE FAVORS MEASURE AFTER SENATE FIGHT

Senior Body Passes Report Quickly, but Senators Stage 24-hour Struggle

ALL-NIGHT SESSION

Supporters of Bill Triumph When Opponents Quit from Utter Exhaustion

Washington—(AP)— Weathering the most stubbornly contested filibuster of the session the Norris-Morin Muscle Schoals bill was given final congressional approval Friday when the house agreed to the conference report on the measure.

After the senate had agreed to the report after an all night session during which its opponents exhausted themselves physically, the house took it up Friday and under the clock like machinery of that branch of congress, it went through in quick order to be sent to the White House. The vote was 211 to 116. The measure would provide for government operation of the property for the production of nitrate and power.

Washington —(AP)— Breaking a filibuster, which had lasted for more than 24 hours, and exhausted those who had carried it on, the senate adopted the report on the bill.

The collapse of the filibuster came after Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, fighting against a project in the bill for a dam at Cove Creek, in his home state, had exhausted his physical endurance after hours of speaking.

He frankly told his colleagues that he would go no further when he was turned down on two points of order he had made against the bill, but he added that he was certain president Coolidge would veto it.

McKeller, Tydings, of Maryland, Blease, of South Carolina, and King, of Utah, bore the brunt of the speech-making which ran through the night and morning, but the proponents of the measure as it stands, led by Norris, of Nebraska, stood their ground firmly. Never throughout the long hours was there the slightest sign of surrender or compromise on their part.

The senate chamber early Friday morning had a bedraggled, weary look under the flooding yellow lights above its ornamented skylight. There were scarcely any senators on the floor itself. The doors of both party cloakrooms loomed dark with lights inside extinguished so that those who had manned the trenches on either side through the night might snatch a little sleep.

TIRED LAWMAKERS

Occasionally a senator came out, hair rumpled, clothing wrinkled from the all night vigil and the bit of slumber on couch or upholstered chair, but usually he was bound for the restaurant on the floor below for a cup of coffee as a morning bracer.

McKeller of Tennessee, lounged against a front desk on the Democratic side, reading from endless documents in a low, hoarse voice. The Democratic benches around him were all vacant but on the couches that lines the walls of the chamber a colleague or two drowsed or read the morning paper.

Across the aisle on the Republican side, Norris of Nebraska, captain of the forces driving for enactment of the bill and determined to press the campaign of physical attrition to the limit of human endurance conversed with Black of Alabama. All around on desks and the floor were torn scraps of paper, crumpled documents and other evidences of the all night battle that had given janitors little chance to perform their functions in the hours of darkness.

A feature of the battle through the night was the work of Tydings of Maryland, who held the floor unaided and without manuscripts and little other documentary assistance for three hours and five minutes as a states rights champion against government operation and expansion of the Muscle Shoals project.

For the most part he talked continuously of the iniquities he said he saw in the bill and his charge that it violated ancient American tradition of local sovereignty.

Tydings was the only senate member in evening clothes and he seemed almost as vigorous in voice and looked as fresh and immaculate behind his starched shirt front at the end of his versal achievement as he did when he began.

Blease of South Carolina, was another hero of the thin but talkative line of defense. He had two speeches to his credit in less than 12 hours and both were long.

LA FOLLETTE ON FLOOR

At one time during the night, Senator Sheppard, Democrat of Texas, was stretched out and blanketed on a divan as McKeller carried on his fight against the Cove creek dam project in the Muscle Shoals bill. Only three other senators were on the floor at that time — Norris, LaFollette and Shipstead. Dale of Vermont, was presiding.

$150,000 FOR $15.00

Los Angeles—The investment of Elwood Albott, 17-year-old Pasadena schoolboy, last summer has made him quite a chunk of money. He grubstaked "Dad" Allen, gold prospector, with $15 and now has $150,000, his share of the claim which Allen developed.

LASHES FOR MURDER SUSPECT

One hundred lashes was the sentence recently given one Sladich for his alleged part in the murder of a jeweler named Pabst in Valparaiso, Chile. Sladish had previously been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment and his companions, Collao and Ortcago, to death. The court commuted the death sentences to life imprisonment.

HERE'S HOW TO WEAR SEASON'S NEW STRAW HATS

This picture shows how men prominent in civic clubs in Appleton look in their new straw derbies. The men pictured here are E. A. Schmalz of Rotary club, Earl Wichman of Appleton Advertising club, W. O. Thiede of Appleton Chamber of Commerce and F. F. Wheeler of the Kiwanis club.

APPLETON men Saturday again will make the acquaintance of new straw hats and feel at liberty to parade up and down the avenue without some curious onlooker passing a "where do you get that stuff" glance. A proclamation declaring Saturday official straw hat day was issued Friday by Mayor A. C. Rule. It follows:

"Whereas, the approach of summer and dictates of fashion demand that man shall abandon the cumbersome garb which marks his winter attire; and,

"Whereas, the three C's of summer clothing are Coolness, Comfort, and Convenience, and

"Whereas, the article of headwear called the straw hat best provides for these cardinal C's, I, Albert C. Rule, mayor of the city of Appleton, do hereby declare that Saturday, the twenty-sixth day of May, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred twenty-eight, shall be 'Straw Hat day.'

"Albert C. Rule, Mayor."

All stores in the city will display new straw sky pieces, rain or shine, and all men keeping abreast the times will don them. There have been a few 'straws' seen on the streets from day to day but the wearers looked as timid as Ed Schmalz, Bill Thiede, Frank Wheeler and Earl Wichmann did a few days ago when they had their pictures taken.

There is nothing decidedly new about the straw lids this spring, most of the type hats of last year again being in vogue. Among them the Leghorns, Sennetts, Split Straws, Yeddos, Panamas and Milans. The Split Straws, and Sennetts are of the familiar sailor type and come with turned or sawed edges. Bands are of conservative nature this year, according to hatters.

AND HERE IS HIS HONOR, MAYOR, ALBERT C. RULE, POSING WITH HIS NEW STRAW CREATION. KINDA NOBBY, EH?

HEALTH AUTHORITIES WATCH FOR EPIDEMIC

Appleton Free from Disease; Fondy and Oshkosh Battle Scarlet Fever

Although theer has not been a case of contagion reported to city health officers in the last three days, they are not expecting the perfect record to continue long. Two Fox river valley cities, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac are fighting an epidemic of scarlet fever, and authorities fear the disease will show itself here soon.

Fond du Lac had 16 homes quarantined a few days ago and is carrying on an extensive drive to have children with sore throat and other symptoms of the disease treated. All schools in the city are being watched closely and whenever students are absent a check is made to ascertain the cause.

Oshkosh has five cases of scarlet fever and also is turning every effort to check the mild epidemic. The new cases are causing considerable concern among health authorities there because of the epidemic which gripped the city most of the winter.

LETTER GOLF

WALK FOUR STEPS HOME

HOME is just around the corner if you WALK in letter golf. Par is four, and one solution is on page 7.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, 'HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

TAKES TALENT TO BE HIGH SCHOOL ACTOR

Young Folks in "Bab" Have Demonstrated Their Versatility

Maybe a leopard can't change his spots but Appleton high school dramatists can do some tall metamorphosing as the audience which attends "Bab" the annual senior play at Fischer's Appleton Monday night will see. Last year in the junior play Margaret Keller took the part of an eleven year old in short socks and bloomers that showed beneath her short dress. This year she has grown to a sub-deb of seventeen with love affairs and suitors as the heroine of the title role.

Aloysius Gage has turned from the crook he was in the junior play to a respectable and business like father in "Bab." Rogert Rechner, who took the lead in last year's play and masqueraded as a woman for half of it, has reformed to a worthy and dignified butler.

The plot deals with Bab's desire to be grown up like her sister, and the trouble she gets into when she engages herself to a mythical suitor, whose name she gets from a malted milk tablet and whose picture she buys from a store, and finds out that there really is such a person.

The high school orchestra will play under the direction of E. C. Moore.

GROUNDS NOW READY FOR PIG FAIR DAY

Saturday is pig fair day at the city grounds and a record crowd seems assured. The rural affairs of the committee of the chamber of commerce of which R. T. Gage is chairman, notified the city council several weeks ago that a large pile of sand and numerous second hand automobiles were taking up much of the space generally used by the farmers in displaying their wares and that situation has been remedied.

SECTION CREWS BUSY CLEANING UP TRACKS

Section crews of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad started Tuesday cleaning up tracks through Appleton. Rubbish is being loaded on handcars to be dumped at the city dumping grounds or used for filling in along the line.

Workmen also started grading on the 12 foot shoulder recently built into the ravine bordering the tracks on the south side, back of the Hettinger Lumber company yards.

Additional siding is to be laid parallel to the main line, extending from N. State to N. Lawe-sts, according to W. B. Basing, line agent.

1780—Two regiments of George Washington's troops mutinied.

1787—Work of Constitutional convention began.

Mr. Corbett has prepared considerable data gathered from the establishment of the George A. Whiting airport here and will present it at the meeting.

RANCHER TELLS OF SLAYING EMPLOYE

Claims He Killed Ranchhand in Self-defense During Fight

Bridegport, Neb.—(AP)—W. T. Harris, 38, rancher living about 30 miles north of Oshkosh, has confessed to the murder on the night of Jan. 27 of W. H. O'Daniels, 37-year-old ranch hand, Deputy State Sheriff E. E. Clark said Thursday.

Harris, who has a wife and three children, claimed he slew his employe in self-defense, Clark said. After O'Daniels fired three shots at Harris, the two men grappled and Harris beat O'Daniels to death with the butt of a six shooter, Clark said the rancher confessed.

Dragging the body of his victim to Hackberry Lake, nearby, Harris decapitated it and then cut the torso in two, shoving the mutilated body through holes in the ice, Clark said Harris admitted.

Sheriffs went to the lake Thursday and recovered all of the body excepting the head. Search was continued Friday.

Authorities said Harris and O'Daniels had worked together trapping muskrats. They expressed the opinion the trouble between the men arose over profits of the venture.

SHOWERS FAIL TO KEEP CROWD FROM PROGRAM AT PARK

Estimate 1,600 Present for Cantata, Dances and Artillery Band Concert

Showers and wet grounds failed to keep nearly 1,600 people from packing the new pavilion at Pierce park and overflowing of the porticos surrounding it Thursday evening, the formal opening of the park. The joint program consisted of a cantata sung by girls of the Appleton junior high schools; dances by students of the J. F. Bannister Dancing Studio, and a concert by the 120th Field Artillery Band under the direction of E. F. Mumm.

The program was opened with the singing of "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" by a joint chorus of about 250 girls of the junior high schools, assisted by girls of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, under the direction of Dr. E. L. Baker, director of public school music, and Miss Irene Bidwell, his assistant. The chorus of peasant girls, with many colored dresses and little white peaked caps presented a pleasing spectacle

Following "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," dancers of the Bannister Studio presented a program which made a tremendous hit with the audience. A special orchestra composed of members of the 120th Field Artillery band played the accompaniment. Miss Doris Tustison presented "Ballet Faust" which received hearty applause. Betsy Rosenbaum followed with a "Contortion Dance." Mary Barta demonstrated a variety of old fashioned steps, as the "Barnyard Romeo," after which Beatrice Bosser appeared as "The Sunshine Girl" with a novelty dance. Virginia Hosegood presented a toe dance after which five girls in Mexican costumes danced a variation of steps to the strains of a Spanish serenade. The five dancers were Dolores Tustison, Mary Plank, Margaret Plank, Mary Jane Dohearty and Esther Cranhold.

The band under the direction of Edward F. Mumm, again spoke for itself. The first selection was the famous overture. "Poet and Peasant" by Suppe. A tone poem entitled "Apple Blossoms" by Roberts had a pleasing effect on the audience. The famous old waltz, "Blue Danube" by Strauss, made its usual hit. Miss Margaret Boslough, Lawrence Conservatory of Music, soprano, sang "Carmena," after which the band swung into the French serenade entitled "Les Millions d' Arlequin," by R. Drigo. The concert and program was concluded with the "Savonic Rhapsody" by Friedman.

A count revealed approximately 900 chairs in the pavilion, with room for perhaps 50 or 60 more. Many hundreds of persons were unable to get inside the structure.

BOARD CONSIDERS CLOSING PARK AS PUBLIC PLAYGROUND

Columbia Park Badly Damaged by Vandalism, Commissioners Say

Neenah—This city came near losing Columbia park as a playground on account of the alleged lawlessness displayed by the young people using it. The park commission had almost decided to abandon this plat of land which was deeded to the city for park and playground purposes because of alleged vandalism. The building placed there a few years ago is a wreck and is to be torn down, the tennis courts in the southeast corner are badly damaged and are to be abandoned and the new courts will be made on the west end. The board had intended to discontinue the softball games there and seed the diamonds with grass as a penalty for the abuse.

Plans now in the hands of the commission have been prepared for filling in the park and leveling off and placing a diamond at the northwest corner and another at the southeast corner with the understanding that strict discipline will have to be maintained there or the park will be closed entirely as a playground. Parents are to be asked to warn the children who play there to respect the property.

MRS. LOWDEN DENIES SHE'S THE ONE WHO NAMES PULLMAN CARS

Prospective First Lady Is Daughter of Man Who Founded Great Industry

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles by Allene Sumner Post-Crescent writer, on prospective "First Ladies." Miss Sumner today tells of Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, wife of the former governor of Illinois who is now a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Orgeon, Ill. — Florence Pullman, daughter of the late George Pullman, millionaire founder of a certain company that causes thousands of "Georges" and "Johns" to receive handfuls of quarters every morning when the sleepers roll into New York or Chicago or Cleveland of St. Louis, is the present Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, wife of the former governor of Illinois, and one of several possible future "First Ladies."

It is no strain on the imagination to believe that a Pullman girl had certain advantages in the way of education and travel and social contacts which might make an ideal First Lady.

Florence Pullman was one of the society debs of 30 or so years ago. She along with Alice Roosevelt and Ruth Hanna, gave the great reading public its daily treat with tales of what "those rich girls," are doing now.

THAT NAME STORY

Florence Pullman, one story had it, "thought up all the names" for her father's sleeping cars. She was a student of Indian and Hawaiian tribal lore and christened cars "Laughing Water," "Minnehaha" or "Boola "Boola" in betwiching rapidity.

The story continued to have it that every time daughter Florence broke a bottle, of champagne over one of her daddy's new cars, he put a silver dollar in her pig bank.

As Florence Pullman grew older the silver dollar, according to legend, expanded into something like $10,000 a year which Daddy Pullman paid his daughter for "thinking up names" for his cars.

Mrs. Lowden laughs, not too amusedly, today at these tales.

'As a matter of fact," she says, "I never named one of father's cars in all my life. But the public would keep its story."

The public had its story, too, when "that Pullman girl" was engaged to young Frank Lowden, the son of a Sunrise, Minnesota, blacksmith, and a mere practicing attorney whom she had met at the World's Fair in St. Louis.

Newspapers shrieked "America's Richest Heiress Weds Blacksmith's Son—Trousseau Rivals That of Princess."

There were tales of dozens of gowns and coats and suits and shoes and sets of lingerie to the total of a staggering sum. There were speculative stories as to how the young attorney was going to keep up the pace in the way of expenses expected as a matter of course by the millionaire car man's daughter.

HOUSEKEEPER, TOO

But Florence Pullman had been trained to cook and sew and be a housekeeper, too, just as she has reared her own three daughters. She never, either as a girl or matron, put fashion, the appearance of things, the smart thing to do or see or visit, above the sensible, comfortable, personal choice. Several years ago, when her father died, she and her sister divided the Pullman thirty millions.

Even today she claims to detest fashionable resorts such as Palm Beach and the like, where custom decrees rich people shall go.

The 4500-acre farm on which the Lowdens live in Oregon, Ill., is of the plain garden variety. The house is English style, low, rambly, gabled, with a velvet green lawn rolling down to Rock River.

The recreation and social life of the Lowdens is no more according to the social Hoyles than any other phase of their living. They love to go back to Sunrise, Minn., in the winter time, bundle up in old clothes and coast on bobsleds down all the hills Frank Lowden knew and loved as the village blacksmith's son.

CHARITABLE WORK

Mrs. Lowden prefers constructive charitable and civic work to social folderol.

The Lowden estate here has a summer camp for poor children. Loads of wizened, puny, city-drained children are brought every week of summer to be fed eggs and creamy milk to go back a little more able to live.

Lowden was governor of Illinois during the war. Mrs. Lowden headed the Woman's Council of National Defense for Illinois, offered her home as a convalescent hospital, knitted sweaters and socks and inspired the women of her state.

The four Lowden children are: one son, Pullman, and three daughters, Frances, Harriet and Florence. Frances is Mrs. Albert Madelener, Jr.; Harriet is Mrs. John B. Drake, Jr., and Florence is not married, but has beaus galore.

MONDAY: Gov. Ritchie's mother.

SHE DOESN'T NAME THEM

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden ..they enjoy revisiting Sunrise, Minn., to coast down the hills Frank roamed as the village blacksmith's son.

HORNED TOAD FARMS SPRING UP IN TEXAS

Business of Supplying Toads for Cornerstones Proves a Profitable One

Coleman, Tex.—(AP)— While scientists are disputing its feat of a 31-year slumber in a cornerstone, Sid Sackett wonders whether the famous horned toad of Eastland will ruin his business.

Until the opening of the cornerstone at Eastland's old court house, Sackett was the only breeder of horned toads in Texas, and possibly the only on ine the United States.

Now scores of Texans, dreaming of quick wealth by supplying toads for cornerstones of new buildings and for zoos in eastern and northern cities, are catching the reptiles and starting horned toad farms. This competition of no small concern to Sackett.

In 1912, while he was operating a hotel, Sackett received from a metallizing company an order for 200 horned toads. He hired boys to catch to the toads for five cents each, and he sold the reptiles for 25 cents. His business grew until he decided to raise his own toads for the market.

THE COOLIDGE VETO

The political consequences of Mr. Coolidge's veto of the farm relief bill are what interest the country. Those who are opposed to the administration and Mr. Hoover, including the farm bloc, the advanced Progressives and some Democrats, say it will split the Republican party and accomplish its defeat. They are clamoring for the nomination of an out-and-out "friend of the farmer," like Lowden or Dawes or Curtis. Supporters of the administration insist that the Coolidge view will be upheld by the country, including the bulk of the farm vote.

Although the veto message is one of the severest on record, even intemperate at times, and plainly shows the president's resentment at the second attempt of congress to enact this legislation against his will, we think his objections to it are valid and sound. He has, as we see it, made out a clear case against its constitutionality and its economic feasibility. It has taken courage to follow the course he has elected, and we are glad he possessed it. The temporary political reaction of the country to the veto is of less importance than the ultimate demonstration of its correctness, and that is of course what the president relies upon.

The layman, and we include the farmers themselves, cannot easily appraise the merits or defects of the McNary-Haugen bill. It is an exceedingly complicated proposal, highly involved in experiments along unknown and untried paths. It is extremely doubtful if it is workable even if it is constitutional. The farmers have been carried away in their support of it because the politicians who conceived and drafted it have told them it is a panacea for their ills. The elaborate and intricate machinery it attempts to set up is, we believe, beyond even the capacity of congress to wisely digest and comprehend. The president has, in our opinion, done a better job of sifting and analyzing its effects.

In the campaign of 1896 we had a comparable situation. The cry of "free silver" swept the country; it caught the popular ear and it looked as though nothing could stop it. Mr. Bryan's "cross of gold and crown of thorns" speech at Chicago clothed it with a highly emotional reality. His eloquence set the prairies on fire. New Coxy armies marched in its support. For high-pitched zeal and fervor there have been few campaigns that equaled it. The gold Democrats may have been responsible for Mr. Bryan's defeat, but the country was saved from this disastrous experiment, although it was advanced as a saving remedy to the masses. Sanity and good fortune prevailed, and as we look back on it now we see its startling fallacies with a clear eye. Within a decade a corporal's guard could not have been mustered in support of this great and magnificent idea.

The McNary-Haugen idea may or may not belong in the same class, but there are persuasive indications that it does. How the farmers and the voters at large will look at it on election day is pure speculation. There are surface inconsistencies in the rejection of this measure and the levying of subsidies and indirect taxes for the support of manufacturing and other industries that may prejudice people in its favor. It will admittedly make a powerful battling ground. It may even overshadow prohibition. On the other hand, it may bring about that sensible afterthought that is often characteristic of the American people when confronted by important issues, with a decision to follow the advice and judgment of the president rather than to embark upon a radical move, the dangerous consequences of which seem to be apparent, and the extent of which no one can foresee. We have an abiding faith that agriculture will somehow be reconditioned and reconstructed. The tendencies are all that way. It will be better if it can be achieved without the patent medicines and legerdemain of politics.

RAILROAD MERGERS

The railroads evidently over-estimated the freedom given them by congress to form new combinations under the present transportation act. The Van Sweringens, when they projected their ambitious merger, promptly got into difficulties with the Interstate Commerce commission. Their plan has dragged along for years, while they sought to satisfy the commission by reviving it. Finally they gave up the idea of grouping the other lines around the Nickel Plate, and used the Chesapeake and Ohio as the backbone of their new system. The latest decision of the commission accepts that modified plan with severe reservations and exceptions, notably a refusal to let the new system take over the Erie.

At the same time another bold plan is knocked in the head by the commission. The New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Nickel Plate, together had acquired control of the stock of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, with a view to dividing it among them. They are told that such action is refused because in acquiring the property without the commission's consent they have violated the Clayton anti-trust law.

The policy represented in such decisions as these crimps the style of railroad operators who seek to build rail systems in Wall street. It may retard somewhat railroad developments that are really desirable on the score of increased efficiency. The commission seems to some critics unnecessarily cautious and obstructive.

This however, is better than being pliant and over-ready to grant anything wanted by railroad promoters, however honest and able they may be. It is a relief to the public to find that the Interstate Commerce commission, supposedly weakened by the transportation act, is still a power in the land, possessing more authority in some respects than before, and determined to use it.

SUMMER FLU

People are accustomed to think of flu as a sort of plague—a disease extremely infectious, afflicting people without any apparent cause other than exposure to it. There is, however, another angle from which to view it.

Flu is one of the diseases of weariness. People in full health are not very liable to it, or if they get it, may take it rather lightly. But given the combination of a tired body or mind with an ill-ventilated public place, and down comes the ill-fated person who makes that combination.

Conventions, and we are on the verge of many, are apt indeed to spread the flu around among their delegates. These conscientious ones have been undergoing the rather heavy strain of meetings morning, noon and night. They have been eating unusual food, and often too much of it. They get too little sleep, and they pass hours of every day in badly ventilated halls.

There is one advantage summer flu sufferers have over their winter comrades in sorrow. They can get out in the sun and bake out the germs. As the chief causes are weariness and exposure in badly aired places, so the cure becomes obvious—sleep, sun and air. A day in bed and a day in the sun may save a three-weeks misery and obviate the danger of pneumonia.

BEAUTIFUL HIGHWAYS

The province of New Brunswick, Canada, joins the long list of states and provinces on this continent that are banishing advertising signs from the highways.

The action was hastened by a modern program for numbering and marking highways for motorists. It was found that advertising signs lessened the effectiveness of the traffic signs by obscuring the road marks or at least distracting the motorist's attention. For effectiveness and safety, it was imperative to sweep away all but the official road signs.

There was also the consideration of beauty, Canada is somewhat less tolerant than the United States of clutter and ugliness on the highways. Soon, no doubt, this will be the rule everywhere. Cities and towns, unfortunately, will be cluttered up and "uglified" needlessly long after the rural sections have regained their original beauty.

Even in the country, however, the cleaning up of the highways often fails to accomplish its full purpose, because of the billboards permitted to deface the scenery on private property along the roadside. That is the big thing to get after. It is harder to handle, because people insist that they have a right to do what they like on their own property. Progress can be made, however, by making them see that ugliness always lowers property values, and beauty raises them.

THE WAY EVERYBODY WORKS

It was only a few months ago (September 17) that I told here of the great need of good physiology for lay readers and expressed the wish that Dr. Howell might get out a condensed popular version of his famous Textbook of Physiology (Saunders Co., Philadelphia), which is generally considered the best physiology textbook for university and college students. There is certainly a steadily increasing demand for a good physiology book on the part of the public.

Since then a book entitled "The Human Body," by Dr. Clendening, was published by Knopf, and although not strictly a physiology textbook, Dr. Clendening's book has met with such a wide popularity that it is at present among the six best sellers in the nonfiction class. Another book called "Human Physiology," for high school and college students, by Prof. Percy G. Stiles, is published by Saunders company, Philadelphia, and has recently gone into the fourth edition, which indicates that it is freely used in high schools and colleges. Still, it is not the style of book we need. The ordinary layman who desires to be fairly well informed about how the body works is likely to find Stiles a bit dry.

Such textbooks as I have examined in the class of books used in the common schools, are not satisfactory to recommend to lay readers in search of this information. These books deal with physiology, if at all, only in a desultory fashion, making it incidental to a vague course in "health." A fair example of these common school textbooks is a series of graded textbooks entitled "Healthy Living" by C. E. A. Winslow, D. P. H., a recognized authority on public health but not on physiology. In his books this author informs the student that the skin is an "excretory organ" and makes many other inaccurate assertions which might do very well in a novel but are inexcusable in a textbook.

Now, I am glad to say, there is available an excellent book for the ordinary lay reader who wishes to know something about the way the body works. It is a new book by V. H. Mottram, who is professor of physiology in London university. Mottram's "Physiology" is published by W. W. Norton & Co., New York., and extraordinary to relate, it costs only $3. The author of this book sticks strictly to the subject of physiology, though he has a certain knack, or is it a style, that makes his book easy and rather enjoyable reading. I fancy it will be a long, long while before a better book of the kind will be published, although doubtless Mottram can improve on his style in future editions. For instance, he might fairly omit those perfectly good words anterior and posterior, of which we scientific folk are so fond, and substitute the simple Anglo-Saxon (at least I hope they are) words front and rear. Likewise he might say spineless instead of invertebrate. These are insignificant suggestion which it is easy for one to make in reference to almost any work by a scientife man. Taken as it is in the first of what I believe will be many editions, Mottram's "Physiology" should be a very welcome addition to the library of any good American family.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Medical Means Healing

. . . but I do give you credit for greater liberality than some of your prominent colleagues, for on rare occasions you have admitted that the ——— paths are good doctors. Still, you betray the usual prejudice against other schools than your own . . . (E. P. H.)

Answer—All "paths" lead to the grave, and so I advise everybody to give healers purporting to be members of this or that "school" or to practice this or that "pathy" a wide berth when in need of medical advice or care. The word medical means healing, and does not apply to the method or "school." Your remark about "other schools" than my own sounds like a voice from the nineteenth century. I acknowledge no "school," nor have I any respect for a healer who pretends to confine himself to the tenets or theories of any "school." All that is obsolete. Today the educated physician recognizes no such silly boundaries or borderlines. Only the old fossils retain such narrow prejudices. Science is universal, free to all the world, and not a commodity marketed under anybody's private brand or trademark.

Snakebite

Our fishing season is here, and some of the best streams are in country infested with rattlesnakes. Please advise what to do if struck by a rattler and no doctor is available. (S. P.)

Answer—Wear boots or leggings to protect the legs two-thirds up to the knees. Rattlers seldom strike higher. Carry in your pocket some potassium permanganate, in crystals, powder or tablets. Immediately after a bite by a rattler apply a tourniquet around the limb above the fang marks, and with a razor or sharp pen knife make criss cross incisions through the skin at the position of the fang marks, to encourage bleeding. Then suck the wound a few minutes—no danger when one does this, unless his lips or tongue be cut or cracked. Then rub into the raw cuts or into the fang marks some crystals or powder of the permanganate. Of course it is possible to inject a solution of permanganate with hypodermic syringe, all around the fang marks, this is best. After 10 minutes loosen the tourniquet for one minute, then tighten it again. After that, loosen it for a minute every five minutes, and after an hour take it off altogether. This is the best treatment, short of administration of the antivenom serum.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

THE "NIGGER" IN MUSIC AND LITERATURE

Noark Bradford, author of the year's prize-winning O. Henry story and also author of a book of "nigger" Bible interpretations, "Ol' Man Adam and His Chillun," believes that the negro spirituals that are so greatly exploited on concert programs are about ninety percent bosh. White folks who knew nothing about the "nigger" think they are listening to "nigger" music and they go into ecstasies over it. As a matter of fact, Bradford says, they are listing to something that would be as absurd to compare with the real thing "as it would be to compare one of Bach's most profound compositions with a popular song hit."

Bradford ought to know. He was born on a plantation that was worked by "niggers" and all his life he has lived among them, has studied them, had one for a nurse and played with little "niggers" In spite of all of which he confesses that he knows practicallly nothing about them They are a great mystery to him but he knows that the people who pretend to interpret the "nigger" in music and in literature know still less and that they don't even know they do not understand him.

He distinguishes between three types of black people — the Negro, of whom Booker T. Washington was a fair sample; the colored person, neither black not white, most tragic of all the blacks; and finally the "nigger," the irresponsible, apparently happy black man, innocent of "education" in our sense of the word.

The "nigger," thinks Bradford, has done three things in the past two hundred years that the white man hasn't been able to do in two thousand years. He has created for himself a language of beauty and rythm that, perhaps, is more expressive and less verbose than any language extant. He has created him a religion that produce for him that spiritual peace and rest in this life that the religions of white men describe and offer but fall just short of producing. And finally he has produced a distinct racial music, which, I believe, is not even claimed by any other race."

As might been expected, the white people — the socalled superior race — hit on the idea of exploiting this distinctive "nigger" music. It has become something of a fashion. Many people who are spiritually as far away from the "nigger" as the north pole from the south make a great show of cultivating this exotic music and are trying to cramp it into the conventional forms of white man's music Bradford expresses the opinion that it can't be done and that people who have merely listened to negro spirituals on cnocert programs have merely heard a fake.

The same thing is undoubtedly true of "nigger" literature, although Bradford does not make a point of it. During the past dozen years or so a certain type of writer has arisen who pretends to interpret the "nigger." He invariably makes him the theme of comedy. The "nigger" is a droll fellow. The white writer, obsessed with all the prejudices of white civilization, sees the nigger as an audience in a theatre sees the black-face minstrel troups. They are not honest-to-goodness real. They are characters in comic opera. Their loves and hates are not to be taken seriously, not in the same sense in which we take seriously the emotions of white people in novels. They are the subject for laughter.

Such stories go over big. They have won an audience of millions. I have always suspected that they are shoddy. There have in recent years been a few honest attempts to portray the "nigger" seriously as for instance Mrs. Julia Peterkin last year in "Black April." But such books are as yet so rare that they stand out as great exceptions. Nine times out of ten "nigger" stories are of the Octavus Roy Cohen type. It is that type of "nigger" story that has its hundreds of thousands of readers.

Reark Bradford is the latest addition to the small band of writers who really knew the "nigger." Knowing him, they are reluctant to be cocksure about him. But they are at least writing the beginnings of a genuine literature about the life of the "nigger" in America.

FAULTY HEART ALLOWS ONLY MILD EXERCISE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, The Health Magazine

In a recent well written consideration for the public entitled "What You Should Know About Heart Disease," Dr. Harold E. B. Pardee devotes one chapter to the questions of recreation and climate.

These questions are constantly before those who may be even slightly afflicted with a disturbance of the heart. It is recognized that every brain worker must have physical recreation, and every physical worker some mental recreation, in addition to the hours spent in sleep.

At least two hours each day should be spent in exercise and recreation and at least all day once a week. This period includes all preparations and the time spent in return to home or to work.

As one grows older a period of relaxation following luncheon and a change of interest for half an hour is found exceedingly restful. It is particularly important to realize that exercise must be a gradual process, and those who take but little exercise during the week should not try to do the whole week's exercise on Sunday.

A mere change of air or scenery is not always beneficial. The person with heart disease may be much better off at home than he would be climbing mountains or exposing himself unnecessarily to a severe climate.

In general, altitudes over 2500 feet are not desirable for those with heart disease, since the altitude makes an increased demand best place for a vacation for anyone with heart disease is a flat or rolling country not over 1000 or 1500 feet above sea level.

Of course, high diving, long distance swimming and bathing in heavy surf are not to be recommended to the person with an affliction of the heart.

Rheumatic disease and the associated heart disturbances are not so common in the southern and central portions of the United States as in the northern portions.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — Many of the huge skyscrapers of New York are veritable cities within themselves. The Equitable building, for instance, has a population of 12,000 workers. The Woolworth and Greybar buildings house 10,000.

If the Equitable could be flattened over a city area it would cover 43 blocks — a business section that any thriving city would like to add. To operate such buildings requires an administrative policy similar to that of an incorporated city. The superintendent is the theoretical mayor, and has under him an organized body of workers. Such buildings boast their own police department and a fire organization assisted by "volunteers." The operation of the scores of elevators constitutes the traffic problem for the expresses and the locals must leave on the dot and the whole mechanism of such a structure must click if confusion is to be avoided.

A couple of years ago someone started a newspaper for a couple of the skyscraper populations, figuring that a potential drawing power of 20,000, or thereabouts, was at his command. Of course he failed. For he overlooked the fact that, when all is said and done, these buildings lack community interest. In a city of 20,000 pretty nearly everyone is likely to know pretty nearly everyone else, whereas in a building of 12,000 persons two stenographers are likely to sit desk-to-desk for years with only a polite nod in the morning and a cool "good night" at quitting time. Each office — and there are 2400 in these steel giants — is a tiny hamlet within itself, without the slightest interest in each other. Under such circumstances a newspaper could not survive.

* * *

For those who are impressed by statistics, some idea of the magnitude of these great citadels can be gained from the following figures: In a single sky giant more than 100,000 persons enter and leave within an eight-hour day. The combined elevators travel more than 900 miles a day. Something like 400,000 gallons of water are consumed daily and 4800 telephones keep the switchboards active. Postmen distribute nearly 150,000 pieces of mail from the various chutes, and the lighting system could supply a good-sized town.

The story goes round that a well known young man by the name of Lindbergh and another young man by the name of Tunney finally met at the home of a friend. Immediately both began to regret the fact that fame knocks out all hope of privacy. Each suggested to the other ways of affecting a disguise.

"At least I have the best of you in that I can retire," laughed Tunney, while Lindberg sadly shook his head.

Yet, I am told, when they shook hands on the sidewalk a few moments later and turned to go their seperate ways, not a soul so much as looked around.

MERRITT RETURNING TO AIRPLANE FACTORY

Pilot of the "Pride of Appleton" to Build Plane for Non Stop Flight

Eddie K. Merritt, chief pilot for the North American Airways company, will leave here this week for Detroit where he will construct a special airplane in which he and Captain George Haldeman will seek honors in a non stop air race from New York to Los Angeles.

Merritt, who came here when the airways company bought the "Pride of Appleton," has been flying the ship since that time and his leaving is prompted by the desire of the Stinson factory to help in the construction of the specially designed airplane.

George Hopkins of the Stinson factory at Detroit will arrive here this weekend to examine commercial pilots who apply for the position of chief pilot for the company.

DOGS RUN LOOSE; 2 APPLETON MEN FINED

Judge Theodore Berg Imposes $1 Fine on Owners of Canine Pests

Two Appleton men were fined $1 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday morning for allowing their dogs to run at large. One of the men pleaded guilty and the other pleaded nolle contendre. He said he was not guilty but that his time was too valuable to be taken up in court.

Both charges were brought by neighbors of the men and complaints were signed by the neighbors.

George T. Prim, chief of police, said Friday the police are swamped with complaints but that no arrests will be made unless the complainants appeared in the case and signed the complaints. A city ordinance provides punishment for dog owners who allow their pets to roam at will, causing damage to flowers and gardens, the chief said.

APPLETON CITIZENS GET CHANCE TO AID WAR VETS, FAMILIES

Purchase of Poppies Saturday Will Show World You Have Done Your Duty

Saturday morning Appleton people again will be asked to make their annual subscription to disabled war veterans and their families, and will carry in the lapel of their coat a little red poppy to signify to the world in general they have done their duty in that line. All funds raised by the drive are turned over to the American legion and its auxiliary and used for service work in the city, state, and in federal hospitals.

The little red poppy has an interesting history and carries with it a wonderful significance as is related in the following article written by the Rev. L. M. Schorn, Wausaukee, state chaplain of the legion.

"The little red poppy which sprang so profusely from the blood-drenched soil of France, took root in the soil of American hearts and sentiment even before the end of the great war," says Father Schorn. "The idea of wearing a poppy in memory of all who died in the World war was presented to the American Legion by one who, from all information obtainable, was the first in America to so wear the poppy—Miss Moina Michael of Athens, Georgia.

SAW McCRAE'S POEM

"It was on the morning of Nov. 9, 1918 while she was serving on the staff of the Y. M. C. A. overseas, head at Hampton hall, Columbia university, New York, that a soldier placed in her hands a copy of the 'Ladies' Home Journal' with Col. John McCrae's 'We Shall Not Sleep' illustrated on it.

"In Flanders' Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks still bracely singing fly.
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.
"We are the dead.
Short days ago we lived, felt dawn,
saw the sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.
"Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch—be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith with us who die.
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flanders' Fields."

"Alone in her office, Miss Michael read and re-read this beautiful version which immortalized the poppy, and studied the graphic illustration. She caught the message, and as she had dedicated herself to the service of her country on the night war was declared, she at that time made a second dedication To Keep The Faith and always wear a poppy as a sign of remembrance of the sacrifice made by those who fell. This dedication she wrote in the following verses:

"Oh you who sleep on Flanders' Fields
Sleep sweet—to rise anew
We caught the Torch you threw
And, holding high, we keep the Faith with all who died.
We cherish, too, the poppy red
That grows on fields where valor led;
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes, never dies,
But lends a luster to the red
Of the flowers that bloom above the dead in Flanders Fields!
And now the Torch and poppy red
We wear in honor of our dead.
Fear not that ye have died for naught;
We've learned the lesson that ye taught
In Flanders' Fields!"

BOUGHT RED, RED POPPIES

"As she was penning the last line of this dedication a committee from the 25th conference of the Y. M. C. A., which was meeting there at that time, brought her a check in appreciation of her efforts to make an attractive Hostess House at their headquarters. "How strange that you should bring me this gift at this time," she replied, "and I shall buy with it, bright red poppies, Flanders' Fields' Poppies. Do you know why?" And she showed the men the poem of her answer. They were so impressed that they asked the privilege of presenting her idea to the conference then meeting up stairs. It met with their instant approval and after the adjournment of the conference the men came down stairs and asked Miss Michael, who had used the check to buy silk poppies for poppies to wear—the first seen in America of wearing the poppy for all who died.

"The armistice was signed and other conferences adopted the poppy. Memorial gardens were planted—Sandusky, Ohio, had in the spring of 1919 one of the most noted of these gardens.

"The first street sale of poppies in a large city was held in Milwaukee, June, 1919, to raise money for the 32nd division homecoming. And again just before memorial day 1920 the American Legion in Milwaukee sold the poppy to raise money for service work to the disabled—this before the poppy had been adopted as the memorial flower of the legion.

"In 1920 Dr. Pender Jenson, of Tacoma, Wash., went back overseas. He was so impressed by the crimson masses of poppies waving over the graves that when he returned he had his post adopt the poppy as its memorial flower.

POPPY A SYMBOL

"In the mean time, Miss Michael became increasingly convinced of the need of a token 'lest we forget.' Her vision was far reaching—she realized we could not have a memorial in every corner of the land from whence our World war heroes came, but the poppy could be worn as a memorial everywhere. Although not a member of the American Legion, yet Miss Michael felt that it was the logical national organization to adopt the poppy as a memorial to the heroes of the World war. And so she appeared at the Georgia department convention of the American Legion held in Augusta, Georgia, Aug. 18-20, 1920 and turned over to it all her data concerning the poppy being made the American Legion Memorial Flower. Her idea was adopted and the Georgia delegation to the national convention to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, the following month, was instructed to present the resolution advocating the adoption of the poppy as the legion memorial flower and to support it.

"The resolution was duly presented and heartily adopted — its first adoption in America by a great national organization. And in addition, the national executive committee declared that it should be worn on Memorial day and not on Armistice day. In October, 1921, the American Legion Auxiliary also adopted the poppy as its memorial flower and pledged the profits from the sale of the poppy 100 per cent to welfare relief for the service men and women and their families.

"The poppy is now the memorial flower of the French, British and Canadian World war veterans organization. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, another patriotic organization of America, adopted the poppy in the spring of 1922. The American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary cannot claim a sole right to the poppy but they can always claim to have been the first large national organization of this country to have adopted this flower as a memorial to the dead and a sacred symbol of service to the maimed of the World war."

LIGHTS SHINE AGAIN IN OLD GERMAN CASTLE

Berlin—(AP)—Once more the former Royal Castle facing the Lustgarten, after having slumbered for over a decade in gloomy darkness, stands forth at night in a brilliant blaze of 100 lighted windows.

The picturesque illumination, recalling former days of imperialistic splendor, was decided upon by the Prussian Ministry of Fine Arts and Public Worship for the two-fold purpose of giving people an after business opportunity of visiting the castle's historic interior and the exhibition of applied arts there installed and of setting off effectively at night the building's monumental beauty.

FISHERMEN HIE TO FAVORITE STREAMS AS SEASON OPENS

Anglers Must Not Catch Black Bass for a While Yet in This District

Sunrise Friday morning marked the opening of the game fishing season and reports from northern Wisconsin on the conditions of lakes there are neither optimistic or pessimistic. Fishermen now can catch almost any kind of fish with the exception of black bass and Sturgeon. The Bass, said to have more fight per pound than any other fish, will be protected until June 20 in general waters, June 15 in the waters of the Mississippi and July 1 in Green Lake and Green Lake county.

The trout fishing season has been open since May 1 but in northern counties the water has been too high. The Brule, on the border of Wisconsin and Michigan, still is a favorite trout stream together with several others in the district.

Pelican lake near Antigo is one of the favorite spots near here for muskie fishing, while Shawano Lake directly to the west has been one of the favorite fishing grounds for pike and pickerel.

The Sturgeon Bay region also is one of the favorite districts for local sportsmen who intend to fish for pike and pickerel. Frances Everard and John Joseph have announced they will depart for this section to engage in the sport Friday.

Chain of Lakes near New Auburn, the Chippewa and Flambeau rivers, the Hayward-Cable district in the northwest section of the state, and the waters near Mercer have been the favorite spots for sportsmen in the past who participated in the quest for game fish.

The lakes in upper Wisconsin are reported at a normal level, not too high or low, but just right for the anglers who are eager to try for the big fellows.

At Solon Springs, Douglas-co it is reported that the pike are thicker than ever and that the fishing this year will be the best ever. Good prospects are also looked for at Yellow lake and Web lake in Burnett-co.

Although the lakes in this region do not abound with muskellunge as they did in the past, there are still enough of the big fighters to make fishing interesting. Lyman lake Douglas-Wis., "Muskie" water. Then there are the walleyed and northern pike, which are second to none, in the water or on the table according to veteran fishermen.

More popular as summer resort lakes than as fishing lakes, Lake Amnicon and Lake Nebagamon both in Douglas-co still have fish for the regular fishermen who know how to get them.

These lakes also have plenty of small fish such as perch and sunfish, which may be taken out all year. In counties bordering on the Mississippi the sunfish season opens May 25.

Lake Chetek and Turtle lake are big enough to give the big ones plenty of room in which to turn around while Pokegama lake harbors lots of the smaller fish. These lakes all are in Barron-co.

The smaller fish, rock bass, and the like, are also at the mercy of anglers after May 25. These fish are a favorite of many housewives as they claim it is one of the most delicious when cooked right. Catfish, white bass and pickerel round out the list of eligibles after May 25.

GUSHING OIL WELLS RELEGATED TO PAST

San Angelo, Texas—(AP)—The advent of thrift into oil production has destroyed the actuality of pictures showing a dark liquid spouting high above derricks and coveging the ground with ooze.

Even gushers now are prosaic affairs. Their flow of oil is anticipated with the laying of equipment which saves the treasure taken from the soil. The visitor in the fields finds that a gusher appears to be little more than a collection of heavy pipes, fittings, valves and wheels about a derrick.

Although the product of oil wells is a potential and readily accessible power fuel, it is electricity that does the work. The power that passes along a wire has eliminated the steam boiler which was heated with gas or oil, and thus a great fire hazard has been removed.

Electricity turns the bits that sink the shafts. It operates the pipe line pumps, the loading racks, the gas compressors and the water separators.

Three factors—economy, safety and lack of water—hastened the use of electricity in the Pecos oil field. Water in some sections has been more costly than oil, and therefore the use of steam was prohibited. Hauling of water long distances has made it cost 75 to 90 cents a barrel, while crude oil brought only 65 to 70 cents.

Presence of natural gas in large quantities forbade the use of fires for heating steam.

The Finnish Civic Air League recently purchased an airplane.

Beloit— (AP) —Following a four-day commencement program, the class of 1928 of Beloit college will formally close its undergraduate college life on Monday, June 18.

A large number of alumni have signified their intention of returning for the occasion. Classes of '68, '73, '78, '83, '88, '93, '98, '03, '08, '13, '18, and '23 are holding formal reunions this year. Arrangements have been made to accommodate them in the various dormitories.

Class day exercises begin on Friday, June 15. Among the ceremonies will be the old annual custom of the senior class of assembling on one of the Indian mounds on the campus and smoking a peace pipe as a symbol of fellowship.

The formal commencement program will be held on Monday morning with the Rev. Oscar E. Maurer giving the annual address to the senior class. Mr. Maurer is a brother of Irving Maurer, president of the college.

Preceding the college exercises a prayer meeting will be held in the chapel. The Rev. Thomas L. Riggs, of the class of '68, will lead the meeting.

An extensive program of reunions, and luncheons have been arranged for returning alumni. The Saturday program includes a luncheon and supper for the grads.

Various organizations will meet at this time. Phi Beta Kappa members will hold their reunion. Other groups which will convene are Delta Sigma Rho, the Daughters of Beloit, the board of trustees, and various fraternity and sorority groups.

That evening the Shakespeare society will present a "Winter's Tale" in the outdoor natural amphitheatre, which is called "As-You-Like-it" hill.

President and Mrs. Maurer are holding an open house following the college supper and alumni song fest are to be held on the campus.

The program closes with a luncheon at the Faculty and Alumni club Monday noon.

FUND APPROPRIATION BY BOARD HELD VALID

Madison—(AP)—A resolution by a bouty board, carrying a money appropriation, is valid if adopted by majority vote at a special session of the board, even though the board's rules require such resolutions to be laid over one day before final action is taken. But then there's a boy and girl in some of the sets, so that helps a little.

Salesgirls Take Lessons On Selling And How To Talk

"School days, school days, dear old golden rule days." You're not through with them now when you tack your diploma on your bedroom wall. At least salesgirls in one large Appleton department store have learned that they are not through with classrooms and text books when they get a job, for their store is having grammar school for them several times a week, and for a time, syntax, gerunds and gerundives will be as much on their minds as their marcel waves and the amount of their sales.

"People are getting better educated every day," said one of the heads of the store as he explained the change. "No longer do they want to buy from a girl who uses poor English or has not the vocabulary to describe her goods and do them justice." So the famous sales girl of O Henry stories who murdered the king's English and said ,"Gee," "Golly," and "Aint" will follow starched shirtwaists, buggies and the dodo bird into oblivion.

The grammar lessons are not the only lessons that this store provides for its employes. Periodicaly it has round table discussion groups where correct selling, suggestive selling, knowledge of goods, courtesy, and service are stressed.

Managers and heads of several of the large department stores here agree on the point that most of the salesgirls do not care to undertake extra study. When salesmanship speakers are brought to the store they go to listen to his address because they think it a duty. The managers and department heads were unanimous in the opinion that if a girl does take a real interest in her work she has every chance for advancement and that there are few ten dollar a week clerks, who, if they showed initiative and interest, could not be advanced to twenty, thirty, forty, and sometimes seventy five dollar a week positions.

Although their advancement may be limited by the size of the town and the store where they are working, said one manager, if they have the right stuff and the ambition within them, they will find larger fields, in larger stores and cities. This management cited as an example the case of an Appleton girl who clerked in two department stores in this city and then moved to Madison where she is now managing a department in one of its largest stores at a salary of seventy-five a week. In large cities, girls who do "missionary" or "Big Sister" work in the stores get salaries that run up to ten thousand dollars a year.

It was the opinion of one department head that while a woman can advance herself to some degree in the retail selling field, she can never get as high as a man because "after all, it seems nature has designed woman for the home."

Various ways of making the sales girls more interested in their work and more efficient have been carried out in the stores. In one store prizes were given for the best answers to problems that arise during the day. For instance, once, on a rainy day, a woman came into the store, and bought an umbrella. The next day she brought it back because, she said, she had plenty of umbrellas at home. The clerks were asked what they would do in such a case, and the prize went to the girl who stated that she would courteously refund her money to the woman, if, after attempting to make her take some other goods in exchange for the umbrella, she failed.

"Start 'em young" has been a successful motto in the work of the salesmanship classes of the senior high school. Theory is supplemented by actual practice in Appleton stores. "The student's timidity is overcome and many of them develop into excellent salespeople," said a head of one department store who has done much work with the high school people. He has discovered that a student who cannot make a sale in one department can make a great many in another if he is sincerely interested in the article he is selling. Therefore students are placed as far as possible in departments which appeal to them. The store has a salesmanship library of books and trade journals for its help.

STAGE And SCREEN

VIVID AND THRILLING FILM AT THEATRE

A picture of unusual dramatic interest and entertaining qualities, "Streets of Shanghai," a Tiffany-Stahl production will be shown for the first time at the Elite theatre. It is a picture production that will keep an audience on the qui vive from the very start to the fast moving and dramatic finish. In passing it may also be added that it seems as if the producers spared no expense in magnificent settings brought out in all their richness and splendor by exquisite photography.

The story of "Streets of Shanghai" tells of a pretty American school teacher who is engaged in the school attached to an American Mission. She watches her small Oriental charges and it was through the fact that one of her girl pupils was kidnapped and brought to the Street of Laughing Girls, that she meets the handsome young Marine who helps her rescue the Chinese maid and incidently lose her heart. Interspersed in the romantic trend of the screen drama are many great comedy scenes and also drama that holds and enthralls.

Miss Pauline Starke plays the featured role of the school teacher in her usual fine dramatic way. Playing opposite is Kenneth Harlan as the Marine who wins the girl after many vicissitudes. Margaret Livingston is superb in her part of the demi monde while Eddie Gribbon causes gales of laughter by his drolleries. Jason Robards, as the Chinese, Sojin as the Mandarin and Anna May Wong are splendidly cast. The story is by John Francis Natteford and excellently directed by Louis J. Gasnier.

UNDER THE TONTO RIM

Zane Grey knows the West.

Often in the past, he has proved himself a master of the yarns of the vast, open spaces as written for motion pictures.

Once again, this prolific author reveals his talents, this time in a new type of story which has been made into a Paramount film production, "Under the Tonto Rim."

"Under the Tonto Rim" comes to Fischers Appleton Theatre Saturday with 5 acts of vaudeville and presents many fine characteristics, according to all reports.

First of all, an able cast was selected to personate the various characters in the tale, the company being headed by Richard Arlen and Mary Brian, and supported by Jack Luden, Harry T. Morey, Bruce Gordon and many others.

Secondly, attractive photography is featured throughout, this feature of the picture being more interesting and entertaining than many another outdoor story that has been screened of late.

Lastly, Grey's story is a virile one, with a plot that well fits the demands of the motion picture audiences. While many of this author's writings have concerned the life of the cowboy, "Under the Tonto Rim" has as its locale and background the Tonto Basin in Arizona at the time gold was discovered.

Many thrills have been interwoven in the action, and the comedy element has not been neglected, nor has the romantic appeal. Miss Brian and Arlen are well known on the screen as two of the best-liked leading players in pictures. This is the first time they have ever appeared in a western story, and it is their first work together. Arlen has done a number of important roles, most notable of which were the leads in "Wings," "She's a Sheik," "Rolled Stockings" and in "Figures Don't Lie." Miss Brian has played in a number of Richard Dix vehicles since her debut as Wendy in "Peter Pan," and is ranked as one of Hollywood's most promising girls.

Herman Raymaker directed. J. Walter Ruben wrote the screen play, which C. Edgar Schoenbaum photographed.

SPANISH GOLD SEARCH ON

Captain S. R. Streatfield, M. P. for Galloway, Ireland, is searching for treasureres aboard the sunken Spanish Armada galleons off Tobermory, Ireland. It is believed that the galleons contain gold, silver and jewels and perhaps the crown intended for the King of Spain as King of England.

CHOPIN FILM AT MONTE CARLO

"La Valse de l' Adieu," described as "a page from the life of Chopin," was recently shown at Monte Carlo. During the showing incidental music, consisting of selections from Chopin's works, were played on the piano by Mlle. Magdeleine Brard and by the Casino Orchestra. The film was produced by Henry Roussell, and was given a favorable reception.

Close-Up Shows That Washington's Great Men Are Just Plain Humans Despite Talk

Washington—No man is a hero to his valet, as the old saying goes, and for the same reason, perhaps, the famous senator or congressman whose name often fills the headlines in hundreds of newspapers, is no more than just a human being in the eyes of Washingtonians.

Distance may lend enchantment to the view in lots of cases, but not in the case of Washington's great; in fact, it seems to have just the opposite effect. A close-up tends to dissolve them into just ordinary human beings who prefer certain shades in neckties, perhaps pick their teeth in public and, to a large degree, act just like the rest of us.

HOUSE LIKES SIDEBURNS

As one who has but of late returned from a sojourn in the galleries of the House and Senate I beg to report the fashion note that morning coats and sideburns are commonly worn in the House but that clean shaves and garden variety business suits predominate in the Senate.

Boutonnieres flourish in the Senate, too, but one doesn't see even a sunflower or geranium in a House buttonhole, with the exception of the daily carnation, generally pink, in the lapel of Speaker Nick Longworth's usually gray suit.

One of those pretty little human interest stories about the capital has it that the young Palina decorates her famous father with the nosegay every morning when he leaves for work and sometimes calls with her nurse at his office with a fresh blossom for the afternoon.

SEN. COPELAND'S FLOWER

The Senate has its flower story, too, in the person of Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, who hasn't appeared for years without his carnation. This adornment dates romanticaly back to the early days of his marriage when his wife put a carnation within his buttonhole every morning.

But the House always holds one high spot which the womanless Senate cannot. This is the little cluster of sideburns and morning coats always hovering about the seats of the widow congresswomen, Mesdames Rogers and Kahn. Such bowing and scrapings and genuflections over the ladies' hands one does glimpse from the gallery!

Toothpicks are valiantly wielded in the House. The gallery counted 37 down below, and working as though timed by a metronome. The 37 were wielded by wearers of almost as many varieties of hirsute trimmings—members with goatees, Van Dykes, sideburns, toupees and plain bald domes.

Congressman Edgar Howard from Nebraska, a former crony of the late William Jennings Bryan, is perhaps the most picturesque figure in the House. Congressman Howard wears his white tresses almost shoulder length, a wide-brimmed hat, and a morning coat.

It seems fashionable in both House and Senate for the clerk who calls the roll to pronounce each name "sub gum" or "walla walla." How the respective senators and congressmen know when to say "present" is a secret not fathomed as we go to press. It all sounds just like a train caller in a railway depot.

The reading of the roll, by the way, seems to consume as much time as the actual sesssion itself. It's during the reading of the roll that most informal committee meetings are held, the member going out as soon as his own name is read, or, if he's near the end of the list, not coming in till the rest of the reading's over.

MORE BULK IN SENATE

There is less bulk—poundage—avoirdupois—embonpoint—in the House than in the Senate.

This is attributed largely to the fact that a small monorail car, similiar to the shoot-the-chute cars of an amusement park, carries the perambulating senators from Senate to Senate office building, whilst the poor ambulating congressmen walk the tunnel passageway leading from the House to the Congressional office building.

Too, there are divans on the outskirts of the Senate, but no divans for congressmen.

On the other hand, William F. Caldwell, manager of the restaurant of the House, confides that our congressmen eat one-half barrel of potatoes every day and consume $7,000 worth of food a month or $400 worth a day.

The Senate flaunts a few frills not found in the mere House. Fr instance:

The gray trouser and black coat tout ensemble of Senator Curtis of Kansas—

The gray spats of Senator Sam Shortridge of California, known as "Uncle Sam," and said to look more like a senator than any of the rest of 'em—

Here is how a few of Washington's notables appealed to Don Wootton, NEA sketch artist, when viewed at close range. The flower in Senator Copeland's buttonhole is there every day, rain or shine, and is almost as much of a fixture as the capitol dome, itself.

The double-breasted chamois vest of Senator J. Thomas Heflin—

And green cuspidors!

They are all a part of the daily picture in Washington.

Rays that have banished chilblains and catarrh with equal impartiality, besides providing cure and alleviation in numerous other complaints, were demonstrated recently at the Cheyene Hospital for Children, Chelsea, England.

SUCH NIZE COPPERS

New York—Anyhow one Chicago business man will always have a good word for the Metropolitan police department. When he emerged from a speak-easy in the fifties, recently, he hailed a patrol wagon because he thought it was a taxi. There was something queer about a taxi with a footman, he thought, but it was not until the early morning air partly cleared his mind that he realized he was in the clutches of the law. "Let me out, I want to go to the Vanderbilt," he cried. "We'll be there in a moment," said the officer. And sure enough they pulled up in front of the hotel and the big butter and egg man from the west was turned over to the doorman for safe delivery to his room.

BRONCHOSCOPE MAY BE NEW CURE FOR PNEUMONIA VICTIMS

Physicians of Cornell College of Medicine Announce Results of Test

New York—(AP)—The possibility of an additional method of treating pneumonia, somewhat more surgical than medical, is suggested by the experiments of two physicians who have been working in the surgical research department of the Cornell university college of medicine.

Anouncement of their preliminary results, which have been reported to the New York Academy of Medicine, was authorized by the colleg.

Thir theory is that penumonia is initiated by the sudden stoppage of a bronchus by infected mucus or secretion and that the broncholscope, a long metal tube equipped with an electric light which enables the physician to explore the throat and chest passage, may possibly be of use in removing this obstruction in the early stages of the disease.

Dr. P. N. Corylios, professor of clinical surgery at Cornell and Dr. G. N. Birnbaum, his associate, did not have penumonia in mind when they started thir research in 1926. They were studying what the profession known as "post-operative massive collapse," or shrinking of the lung, a condition that sometimes follows operations. It had been attributed to various causes, but after producing the disease experimentally and studying the results with the x-ray, the investigators observed that the cause was apparently the complete stoppage of one of the bronchi and the absorption of the air in the affected lung by the blood vessels in the tissues of that organ.

They also noticed that the heart moved over to occupy the space vacated by the shrunken lung, that the diaphragm elevated its position to fulfill the same function and that the sound lung expanded. Such phenomena have been reported in pneumonia also and these and other similarities between massive collapse and pneumonia stimulated the physicians to investigate the two diseases further.

They concluded complete obstruction of a bronchus by mucus or secretion was the immediate cause of pneumonia as well as of massive collapse.

Since the use of the bronchoscope to withdraw the secretion had given relief in the latter disease, it occurred to the investigators that beneficial results might also be obtained by employing that instrument in penumonia. Dr. Corylios and Dr. Birnbaum are developing a technique for treating pneumonia in accordance with this theory, but they insist on the point that relief of the local lung lesion with the bronschoscope does not interfere with the use of serum to combat general infection.

The bronschoscopic treatment is simple, bloodless and painless and no ill effects have been noticed in clinical cases treated thus far. The investigators assert that nothing can yet be said of the efficiency of the treatment, but they hope that with the development of technique it may be of decided value.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES PICNIC AT OSHKOSH

Employes of the Chicago and Northwestern railorad from Fond du Lac, Appleton, Green Bay, Manitowoc, Neenah-Menasha, and other Fox river valley cities will hold their annual picnic at Menominee park, Oshkosh, on Sunday June 3, according to W. B. Basing, line against.

Employes interested in baseball were urged to compete in the baseball games to enable the committee in charge of railroad athletics to pick out the best players in the Lake Shore division to form team. The best 20 players picked June 3, will represent the Lake Shore division at the baseball meet at Lincoln, Neb., in August, according to Mr. Basing.

GRESNEZ WINS GOLF TITLE AT HIGH SCHOOL

Elmer Gresenz has been proclaimed the champion golf player in the Appleton high school. He recently won from Arnold Vogt. Golf has become popular in the high school within the past four years and according to the number of boys who competed this year, it has possibilities of becoming one of the outstanding high school sports.

Appleton high school tennis finals will be played between William Tams and Carl Babcock.

GENERAL WEATHER

The pressure is low this morning over the Ohio Valley and northeastern states, with showers. A high pressure area overlies the plains states and eastern slope of the Rockies, with fair weather but with moderate temperature. This high appears to be the dominating factor in weather control for this section tonight and Saturday and possibly Sunday, with fair weather and moderate temperature.

HOLD HOME COMING AT WAUPUN IN JULY

Waupun—(AP)—Parades, picnics, banquets, dances, baseball games and a union church service are attractions which Waupun is using to induce its former citizens to return for Old Home Week July 1 - 2, 3 and 4.

The first day's program consists of a band concert on Sunday afternoon and a Union church service in the evening. On Monday, July 2, there will be an old settler's picnic and a baseball game. The teams will be composed of men who have played for Waupun in former years. The high school alumni association will hold its banquet Monday. In the evening, 300 people will participate in a historical pageant of Waupun. It will be repeated Tuesday evening.

Attractions for Wednesday, July 3, are band concerts, drills by drum corps, a grand industrial and floral parade. In the evening there will be a display of fireworks.

Invitations have been mailed by the homecoming committee to more than 2,000 former residents of the city.

All the features of the celebration will be held in the city streets, with the exception of the pageant.

POSTPONE PICNIC FOR HI-Y BOYS AND GUESTS

The joint picnic of the "A" and "B" chapters of the Hi-Y clubs of the Y. M. C. Games and contests will feature the evening's program.

A parade of approximately 100 boys in grade school Y. M. C. A. clubs will leave the association building at 10:30 Saturday morning to take part in the hike to "Green patch" where the group picnic is to be held. ## Engineer Builds Model Of Plan To Curb Floods

Washington—(AP)—Undeterred by an apparently cool reception by the house and senate flood committees, Carroll L. Riker, retired engineer, is constructing a model of the plan of flood control of the Mississippi Valley which he presented orally to the two committees several weeks ago.

The basement of the senate office building at the capitol is the scene of the model building activity, and when it is finished a sub-committee, appointed for the purpose, will view it. The committee is composed of Representatives Guyer of Kansas, Cochoran of Pennsylvania and Major of Illinois.

Riker's plan, as explained to the two committees, calls for a channel three miles wide from Cairo, Ill., to the Gulf of Mexico, finding its outlet below New Iberia and west of Franklin, La. The channel would be approximately 550 miles long, whereas the Mississippi river in its meanderings is something like 1,070 miles.

On either side of the proposed channel there would be canals 250 feet wide and 70 feet deep, which would be used for drainage purposes. The aged engineer contends that the system would reclaim thousands of acres of land for agricultural purposes. Dirt obtained in digging the canals would be used to construct the channel levees, which would be 310 feet wide at the bottom, 70 feet high and 100 feet across the top.

The channel, Riker claims, would be used as a spillway only in the event that the river reached a height of 20 feet at Cairo, Ill.

The plan complete would cost approximately $705,000,000, with a first unit from the mouth of the Red river to the Gulf of Mexico, a stretch of 87 miles declared by the engineer to be needed imperatively at the present time, costing $130,000,000.

A bill sponsoring the Riker plan was introduced in congress July 1, 1914, but no action was taken by either branch.

JUSTICE PONDERS HIS DECISION IN GUN FIRING CASE

Charles Gorchals Defends Discharge of Shooting on Plea of Self Protection

Kaukauna—Elliot E. Zekind, south side justice of the peace, withheld a verdict in the case of City of Kaukauna vs Charles Gorchals until 2 o'clock Friday afternoon after the hearing at his office on Thursday.

Attorney E. C. Smith of Appleton represented the defendant, Mr. Gorchals and Joseph Lefevre, city attorney, presented the city's case. Gorchals was charged with discharging a firearm within the city limits.

More than a week ago Officer Harold Engerson was driving about the south side when he noticed the Gorchal automobile. He immediately started following and continued to do so until he saw Mr. Gorchals pick up his wife. The officer then started down town, but at this point Mr. Gorchals started to follow the officer and is alleged to have discharged a firearm when the cars were going down Mainave between Fourth-st and Fifth-st. Mr. Gorchals was arrested and taken into police headquarters.

Mr. Gorchals admitted firing the gun but claimed the privilege of doing so in self protection because he was being followed. His lawyer argued that the man had the right of self protection. Attorney LeFevre protested, saying that it was against the law to discharge a firearm within the city limits.

Witnesses for the city were Francis Robideau, Chief R. H. McCarty and Officer Harold Engerson. There were no witnesses for the defendant.

Justice Zekind asked for twenty-four hours time before pronouncing his verdict.

Appleton District Campmeeting of Evangelical Church Will Be Held in August

Forest Junction — A program of services for the annual Evangelical church assembly to be held at the camp grounds here next August will be drawn up at a joint session her Monday evening of committees of the Appleton District Campmeeting association and Sunday-school and Christian Endeavor league.

In accordance with a resolution adopted last summer, the assembly will be held from August 17 to 26. Special outside speakers engaged for the occasion are the Rev. J. G. Schwab, superintendent of a Freeport, Ill., hospital, and the Rev. E. W. Practorius, Cleveland, O., former general secretary. Besides arranging for the sermons and addresses by the speakers, the committee Monday evening will assign services to pastors from the district, and topics on Sunday school and Christian Endeavor activities to district laity and clergy.

New ministerial arrivals on the Appleton district pursuant to appointments made by the recent session of the Wisconsin conference at Milwaukee include the Rev. M. D. Betzold at Denmark and the Rev. Franklin Schlueter at Two Rivers. Two vacancies in its official personnel confront the district Sunday school and Christian Endeavor organization through the removal of the Rev. H. C. Diekvoss from Denmark to the Milwaukee district. The Rev. Diekvoss had been district vice president and Mrs. Diekvoss, junior and intermediate superintendent.

In addition to four resident members, the committee session Monday evening will include the Rev. Philip Schneider, the Rev. J. F. Nienstedt, Miss Florence Schmidt, and Erwin Sailberlich, Appleton; the Rev. G. W. Reichert, and Miss Hazel Peper, Greenleaf; and the Rev. Carl L. Duft, Seymour.

Keeps On Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before and after childbirth. I am a mother of three children—two little girls and a baby boy. I would get rundown, nervous, dizzy and weak sometimes so I had to lie in bed. I would take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic and I always saw an improvement after taking the first bottle. I found it to be a good tonic. I always recommend your medicines to my friends and I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. Anna Louderback, 1607 S. Front Street, Phila., Pa.

STAMPS CLOSELY GUARDED

Elaborate preparations were made to guard the rare stamps on exhibition in London in connection with the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain this year. The total value of the exhibits is estimated at more than $500,000. The insurance ran into five figures and a number of detectives were instructed to be on constant watch. One displayed stamp, owned by Arthur Hind, is valued at $36,750. It is of the famous Ferrari collection, which took about three years to sell and brought more than $2,000,000. Another pair, of the Mauritius Post Office, are valued at $55,000. Some of the members of the association have stamp collections worth $250,000 and their joint collections would bring more than $1,000,000. One man gave $450,000 for a collection just to get five

GERMAN MINISTER DOES NOT APPROVE DAY OF 24 HOURS

Favors Old Plan of Having 12-hour Schedule Instead of Present Method

Berlin—(AP)—Foreign Minister Dr. Gustav Stresemann does not approve of the 24-hour clock, nor of newspapers appearing several times daily, nor of time taking social functions.

Speakin at the annual banquet of the German provincial press, Dr. Stresemann derided the latest computation of time by the 24 instead of the old 12 hour schedule, which, he said, was but another outcome of the universal craving for anything that is new. He said that whenever he was asked to tea for 17 o'clock, he was obliged to make a quick mental calculation to get at the time, which was very annoying.

Frequent editions of newspapers, the German minister of foreign affairs said, were pernicious both for editors and the public, as dulling the perception and judgment of the former and depriving the latter of the time for the intellectual enjoyment of reading periodicals.

Personally, Dr. Stresemann deplored the growing hurry and excitement in Berlin and the overindulgence in social affairs which, he said, prevented a statesman from getting the necessary intellectual improvement. It is incumbent on every statesman, he declared, to read books that keep him posted on a nation's cultural development, to attend theaters and concern himself with the problems besetting humanity and, above all, to study his country's politics which he continually must represent, all of which is made impossible by the increasing demands to attend public functions.

Advocating a sociable family life instead of repeated nerve racking society functions, Dr. Stresemann quoted Napoleon as saying to a minister: "Let me warn you against coaches and dinners" and the ex-chancellor Prince von Buelow: "Many a good diplomat is spoiled by the dinners he is forced to attend."

SCOTCH STOWAWAYS IN BAD

Efforts of three Scotch boys to get to America as stowaways caused them to land back in Glasgow to face a fine or jail sentence. Peter McClean, 18, Henry Moore, 16, and Harold Hosack, 15, managed to get aboard a liner at Glasgow and hide themselves in the fore-peak. They were found, and made to work their way to New York and back, then were turned over to the police. The judge gave each the choice of a fine of $10 or 20 days imprisonment.

HOUSE G. O. P. GROUP FAVORS HOOVER DRIVE

Commerce Secretary Given Solid Support of 134 Republican House Members

Washington—(AP)—Herbert Hoover's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination Friday had the solid support of 134 Republican members of the house, including 24 of the congressional delegates from Pennsylvania, whose 79 uninstructed delegates to Kansas City are expected to play a powerful hand in selecting a nominee at the June 12 convention.

The entire group of 134 representatives gathered at the Willard hotel Thursday night at a final pre-convention meeting and pledged their wholehearted support to the commerce secretary. Mr. Hoover attended and spoke briefly, thanking the banqueting group for their offers to assist in his drive for the nomination. Secretary Work also made a speech, as did twelve of the representatives.

Hoover managers attach great significance to the attendance of 19 members of the Pennsylvania house group. The secretary's backers pointed out that this was the first attendance of the Keystone state members at the regular monthly meetings of the Hoover's supporters in that body and reasoned that Secretary Mellon's recent declaration that the secretary approached nearest the Republican ideal for the presidency had something to do with I.

Representative Milton W. Shreve of Erie, spoke for the Pennsylvania group, predicting Hoover's nomination and election.

Following Mr. Hoover's brief address at the dinner which was presided over by James W. Good, chairman of th Hoover-for-president committee, the representatives talked over their plans, for attending the Kansas City conclave. Many of them will be delegates there.

Other speakers were Representatives Tilson of Connecticut, the majority floor leader of the house; Burton of Ohio; Robison of Kentucky; Mrs. Kahn of California; Reed of New York; Mrs. Rogers of Massachusetts; Newton of Minnesota; Johnson of Washington; Fort of New Jersey; Cramton of Michigan, and Dyer of Missouri.

Rassner told police he went to his room, carrying the jewelry in a sample case, at 7 o'clock Thursday night. The men followed a few minutes later. One of them struck the salesman in the stomach with the butt of a revolver. Rassner was thrown on the bed, to which he was bound hand and foot according to his story.

Included in the loot were uncut diamonds valued at $12,000.

Diamond rings and platinum settings made up the rest.

BUY MOTOR SHARES ON STOCK MARKET

Pools Again Active in Mail Order, Public Utility Issues

New York—(AP)—Heavy buying of the so-called independent motor shares featured the opening of stock market. Studebaker opened with a block of 15,000 shares at 81¼, up ⅝, and the third block of the same size in the last two days. Reo Motors opened with a block of 10,000 shares at 29½, up ⅝, and the first sale of Chrysler was a block of 7000 shares at 79⅞, up 1⅝. Curtiss opened 4¼ points higher, Wright Aeronautical 3 and initial gains of a point or more were recorded by Postum, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide and National Biscuit.

Pools were again active in the mail order, food, copper and public utility issues. Montgomery Ward quickly ran up 4 points, Sears Roebuck and Radio 3 each and National Biscuit, Schulte Retail Stores and Collins and Alkman extended their initial gains to 2 points or more.

With the stock exchange closed again Saturday, Profit-taking sales began making their appearance in a few issues but such offerings were well absorbed.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with Sterling Cables unchanged at $4.88 5-16.

Breadth of the market indicated the revival of public buying which had been curtailed while prices were slipping. Professional operators took advantage of the expanded outside interest to bring into the limelight a variety of dorman issues concerning which the customary crop of bullish rumors were set afloat. Radio got close to the 200 level again, U. S. Steel crossed 147 and General Motors touched 194. The renewal rate for call loans which extends until Monday was continued at 6 per cent.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximately 3,000,000 shares.

COMMISSION LOWERS PRICE FOR DAM SITE IN LANGLADE COUNTY

Rules $9,350 Is Too Much for Tract of Land Sought by Power Company

Madison—(AP)—The purchase price Harry E. Brooks will receive from the Wisconsin Power and Light company for a dam site in Langlade co has been reduced from $9,350 to $6,500 by the state railroad commission.

The power company has agreed to pay Mr. Brooks $9,350. Upon investigation, the state utilities body held $6,500 to be the maximum price which should be paid for the site.

Permission is given the Polk Electric Light company by the commission to issue $40,000 first mortgage, 6 per cent gold bonds, $25,000 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and $5,000 common stock.

It authorizes the Chicago, Northshore and Milwaukee railroad company to issue: $2,268,200 non-assessable, non-cumulative, 6 per cent preferred stock at par value of $100 to retire a like amount of five-year non-interest notes.

The city of Owen is permitted by the commission to increase its water rates, and the Independence Telephone Company is authorized to increase its rate on switching service from $5.05 to $6.50 per station per year.

Robert M. Taufman has received authority from the railroad commission to operate a passenger bus between Menomonie and Menomonie Junction.

The utilities body authorizes an increase in rates by the Farmers Telephone Company for service in Lancaster.

Approval is given the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad to discontinue its agencies at Pewaukee, and Dunbar, and substitute for them custodian service. The Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad is denied permission to discontinue its agency at Oakdale in Monroe county.

FISHERMEN ASK STATE BODY TO CONVENTION

Members of the state conservation commission holding a meeting in La Crosse Friday, are expected to take formal action on an invitation to attend the convention of Wisconsin State Federation of Commercial Fishermen at Two Rivers, June 15 and 16, according to Samuel Sigman, Appleton, general director of the organization. Mr. Sigman said that several of the commissioners had already signified their intention of attending the meeting.

NEW NOSES PLACED ON OLD VENUSES

London—(AP) — The 2,000 statuary casts of the famous folk of history and mythology which were banished from the Crystal Palace during the war are back on exhibition again, but they are not quite the same as they used to be and as classified now they make a strange company.

In a room supposed to be sacred to Grecian statuary, Queen Victoria is found turning, perhaps for sympathy, to Cleopatra. Gladstone beholds the backs of a dozen beautiful women, while Disraeli is almost lost among four Venuses, a couple of Eves, Lady Godiva and some nymphs about to enter invisible baths.

Joseph Cheek, superintendent, nurse and surgeon for all the statues, busts and models in the palace, admits that the classification might be improved, but explain that he has had a big job the past seven years setting them all to light again and repairing the damage done when they were hustled out to make room for war-time occupation of the Palace.

"I have put together beauties that have been broken into bits to say nothing of providing new noses for old Venuses by the score," he said, "and making ears and feet and arms and legs for all sorts of conditions of nymphs, ancient heroes and Victorian statesmen. The most difficult task is fingers. But I have made so many hundreds of them now that I merely take one look where the missing finger was and go straight away and make another that will fit on correctly.

"Don't worry about the classification. We'll get them all placed right in time."

Mrs. H. Bliss and Miss Rea Davis have returned from Minneapolis where they spent two weeks.

The Appleton Post-Crescent Offers its Readers the Rules Of Baseball.

A runner is on second base and the batter hits a ground ball toward shortstop. The ball goes between the shortstops legs, and as the base runner passes behind the shortstop the ball hits him. Is he out or not, and is the batter entitled to go to first if he can make it?

Knowledge of the rules is necessary to play baseball, and adds greatly to the pleasure of watching the game. Our Washington Information Bureau will send the booklet of rules to you.

Airplane Manufacturers Turn To Snappy Coupes And Closed Models To Meet Demands Of Public

Detroit—Having shown its capabilities as an instrument of war, a commercial carrier and a trans-Atlantic thrill-provider, the airplane is about to branch out and become the pleasure vehicle of the average man with all the comforts and conveniences of the modern automobile.

It has adopted the natty color schemes, the soft and luxurious upholstery, the nickel-and-polish finish of the modern motor car. Aircraft manufacturers are getting ready for the day when ownership of a private plane for pleasure will be a commonplace.

Very often you hear it said that "airplans will be as common as automobiles before long." I used to laugh at that. Now, having seen the newest products of practically every aircraft manufacturer in America, including the 60-odd passenger planes exhibited at the recent All-American Aircraft Show here, I'm beginning to believe it. The day of air coupes and air limousiness has already arrived.

The airplane manufacturers are beginning to believe it, too. Consider what they are doing with their new closed models.

There is, for instance, the Monocoupe, which advertises itself as "the ultimate plane for the private flyer." This is a monoplane with enclosed cabin, and it is a machine that is well calculated to become the man in the air. It is finished in black with orange lines; its cabin is finished with gray velour upholstery, it has divided, form-fitting seats and it sells for $2675.

Then there is the Viking, a striking red cabin monoplane with red plush upholstery. There is a Fairchild cabin monoplane done in gray and brown, with leather seats and with wings that fold back so that the plane can be put in your garage. There is the Buhl Airsedan, a cabin biplane with a silver and navy blue body and a comfortable interior finished in blue plush. It has seats for four.

If you want something bigger, your field is equally large. Fokker will sell you an amazing tan monoplane with black trim, which seats six people in a sound-proof cabin which has brown plush chairs with adjustable headrests, and gay striped curtains on the windows. There is also the Flamingo, a dazzling all-metal cabin biplane in silver with crimson trim, which seats six in wicker chairs and has a sizable washroom with running water.

The Hamilton Metalplane Co. also offers a gray monoplane, in which eight people can ride in a soundproof cabin. It will attach pontoons to this model if you wish them. There is also the four-passenger cabined Crusader, done in a striking green; and there is a red and green Stinson-Detroiter, with six leather seats in an enclosed cabin.

Suppose you have a collegiate son who wants something sporty. His only truble will be making a selection.

He might like a Taylor "chummy" monoplane, finished in gray, in which two people can sit side-by-side. If that didn't suit him he could try a Driggs Flyaway Dart, a wee two-seater monoplane with maroon body and gold wings. Or he could try the tiny Gold Tip monoplane, which carries one passenger and advertises that it can take off from a city street. The Simplex Red Arrow, a small blue monoplane with gold trim, which for all its smallness has a neat cabin, would also appeal to him.

Those are a few—and only a few—of the models now on sale.

Interior fittings bear out the new mode. Gone is the spartan simplicity of the old days. Seats are as soft and roomy as in the newest automobile. Some planes are panelled in rich wood; one model even has a vanity case and cigaret lighter in the rear seat. Instrument boards look like auto dashboards.

"Are airplanes going to be common as autos?" repeated one manufacturer. "It certainly looks like it. Why, these cabined planes you buy now you can ride in them without a helmet or coat, in white flannels if you like. Prices are low and production is going up."

"We're producing 5 planes a day right now," said another manufacturer.

A glance at the accessories confirms the belief in widespread pleasure flying. Helmets in blue and red, and neat double-breasted leather coats are offered for fair flyers. Maps showing the location of airports and beacon lights are on sale. One enterprising firm is putting out gasoline pumps for aviation filling stations.

SCOTCH BOYS "BIRCHED"

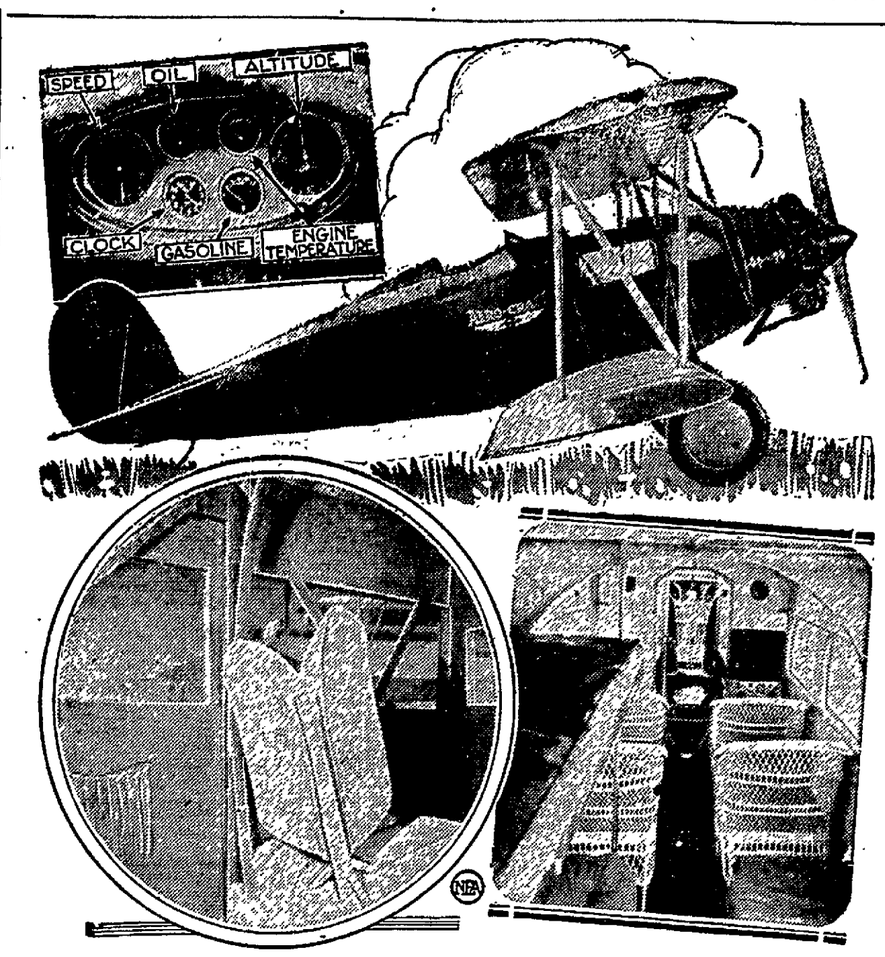
Old-fashioned "birchings" or whippings were recently meted to six boys, from nine to 13 years old, in a court at Edinburgh, Scotland. They were given three stripes each. They threw stones at a passenger train, breaking 13 windows in coaches an dengine.



This layout indicates graphically the way in which the modern airplane is providing luxury for the flyers. Above is a sample of one of the new two-seater biplanes, finished in bright colors and made to look as natty as a sport roadster. The inset at the top shows how the instrument board of a 1928 planes resembles the instrument board of an automobile. Below, at the left, is the interior of a "flying limousine;" note the upholstery and finish, strikingly similar to the interior of a high-priced auto. At the right is the interior of one of the giant Ford planes, with wicker chairs and berths. It also has running water.

208 DRIVERS HAVE LOST THEIR LICENSE

There Are Several Law Violations Which Will Result in Loss of Permit

Madison— — Driver's licenses of 208 automobile drivers out of 600,000 in the state have been revoked since the law has been in effect, A. C. Hartman, director of the operator's license bureau and auto license division of the department of state, has revealed.

The licenses are revoked by the operator's license bureau upon recommendation of a court, which has found a driver guilty of some traffic violation or if the driver has become mentally of physically incompetent to operate a motor vehicle safely.

The offenses which are listed in the law as causes for the revocation of a driver's license are: driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, leaving the scene of accident after injuring any person without giving his name and address.

The driver's license law has been in operation since Jan. 1 and the operator's license bureau, estimates there are a total of about 1,500,000 persons in Wisconsin who drive automobiles and are required by law to obtain a license. Since only about 800,000 driver's licenses have been issued, it is estimated that about 700,000 persons are driving automobiles in violation of the statutes.

Enforcement of the driver's license law is left largely to local police officers, although the license inspectors working under the secretary of state have the authority to arrest any person violating any provisions of the statutes relating to licensing and operation of automobiles.

Before any person can secure a driver's license, he must have operated a motor vehicle for a distance of 500 miles, or if this distance has not been covered, a driving test must be given the driver under the direction of some person named by the operator's license bureau.

Hundreds of driving tests have been given every month since the law has been in effect, Mr. Hartman said, and only a small percentage of those who have been given the test have been refused the driver's licenses.

BROADCAST SPECIAL POPPY DAY PROGRAM

A special Poppy day radio program will be broadcast from station WOMT, Manitowoc, Friday evening by the American Legion auxiliary and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of that city, according to a notice received by the local legion post.

Vocal choruses and solists, an orchestra, saxophone quartet and other features will make up the two hour program between 5 and 7 o'clock in the evening in memory of the wounded men for whom the war is never over. The station operates on 222 meters, 1350 kilocycles.

YOUNG MAN FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

George Haslett, Jr., 333 N. Court-st, Sturgeon Bay, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday afternoon when he pleaded guilty of reckless driving. The judge later remitted the fine and the youth paid the costs. He was arrested about noon Thursday by Gus Hersekorn, motorcycle officer, on W. Prospect-ave. It was charged that Haslett had driven from one side of the road to the other in order to prevent another motorist from passing him.

BUSINESSMEN INDORSE PROPOSAL FOR AIR MEET

Sufficient indorsement was given by Appleton businessmen at a meeting in the chamber of commerce office Thursday afternoon at the proposal to conduct a huge Fox river valley aviation meet here in July or August to induce the special committee in charge of the project to lay out a definite plan. The committee was to meet Friday afternoon to map out a program which will be submitted to businessmen at another meeting.

It was generally conceded that an aviation meet here is a very worthwhile proposition and there were assurances of support. It is planned to have a large number of businessmen at the next meeting when a definite plan will be placed before them.

APPLETON STUDENTS TAKE ACTIVE PARTS IN UNIVERSITY WORK

Five of Them, Graduates of Local High School, Are Department Leaders

According to reports received from university bulletins at the University of Wisconsin, four Appleton boys, former graduates of the Appleton high school, are active in the engineering and other departments of the university.

Frederick A. Mattka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mattka, 1336 W. Second-st, a senior in the college of engineering, is a member of Tau Beta Pi and Pi Kappa Phi, both honorary societies, whose membership is limited to those who have achieved distinction in their scholastic work. Mattka also is a member of the American Association of mechanical engineers.

Another engineer, Alfred Wickesberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wickesberg, a sophomore at the university, is a member of the American Society of civil engineers.

Appleton is well represented in musical circles in the person of John B. Schiebler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schiebler, 1122 W. Spencer-st, a senior in the chemistry commerce course. He is concert master of the university band, concert master of the clarinet quintet, and plays clarinet solos in the university orchestra.

The deans' problem with the freshmen at the university is now handled in a different method than it formerly has been. The "wails and woes" of the yearlings are now taken care of by five assistants, who are working under the direction of Professor Harry Glickman, junior dean of the college of letters and science.

J. Alden Behnke, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Behnke, is one of the five assisting deans. All five are still doing work at the school besides acting in their administrative capacity, which requires about one-half of their time.

ASK HEALTH CHECKUP IN SUMMER MONTHS

School Nurse Reminds Parents That Vacation Is Good Time to Act

The fact that the end of the present school term is but a week off has prompted Miss Mary Orbison, school nurse, to remind parents of Appleton school children that summer is a good time to start remedying physical defects in children and checkup on their general health and immunity to contagion.

All school children in the city have been examined at some time during the year and whenever defects have been found parents have been notified. In many instances remedying of these defects has not been possible while the child is confined to school. Vacation time should mean the beginning of a three months training period, according to the nurse.

Vaccinations and immunization should also be checked by parents according to the nurse. Medical records ought to be checked to see that children still are immune to general contagious diseases and if the time limits have expired, the child should be revaccinated.

OPPOSES FEDERAL BILL ON WEIGHTS, MEASURES

Madison—(AP)—C. J. Kremer, state food and dairy commissioner, is urging members of the house of representatives committee on coinage, weights and measures to defeat a bill pending before congress which would provide federal regulation of weights and measures; and weighing and measuring devices.

He holds that the measure would "seriously interfere with powers reserved to the state of Wisconsin." The bill proposes to give the director of the federal bureau of standards control over all weights and measures which have been approved by the federal director.

"It makes out of the bureau of standards a governing body establishing confines within which a state legislature may act, and authority to which the state legislature must confrom." Mr. Kremer says. "It takes the power apparently reserved by the constitution to the people of Wisconsin, away from them and lodges it in a centralized district bureau, in no way amenable or responsible to the people or to the legislature."

SEEKING PUBLICATIONS IMMIGRANTS SEND HOME

Madison—(AP)—The state historical society is continuing its efforts to obtain letters and journals sent by Wisconsin immigrants to their homes in Europe.

Dr. Joseph Schafer, superintendent of the society, has been commissioned to spend several months abroad. He expects to devote a large share of that time to investigations in various parts of Germany.

His work will be carried on in the chief libraries of the German states. He is trying to obtain advance information from persons living in Wisconsin about individuals abroad who may be able to point out to him manuscripts, and collections of letters which have accumulated in homes from which the immigrants came.

A number of such names have been given to Dr. Schafer in England, Germany and Czechoslovakia.

JUNIOR COLLEGES WANTED

As a relief to the crowded universities in the Philippines, junior colleges are being proposed. Eight thousand students are expected to enroll in the state university this year, and with the present equipment and available space, authorities say that the University of the Philippines will be unable to accommodate them. Junior colleges would not only help this situation, but would also give education facilities in other parts of the islands that do not now have such advantages, they say.

Woman Who Names Colors Says Ensembles To Stay

New York—(AP)—Even the zoo contributes ideas for naming fashion's colors, says Mrs. Margaret Hayden Rorke who conceives the names for the musks, the dawns, the rose-beiges and the canaries of the world of style. She also has resorted to airplane rides for inspiration for appropriate names for the old-fashioned tans, browns, reds, yellow and greens.

As managing director of the Textile Color Card association and vice-president of the American Trade Association Executives, Mrs. Rorke serves industries using colors in any forms regarding the popular shades for the coming seasons.

The dress manufacturers' representatives, members of Mrs. Rorke's association, confer and decide what new notes in color shall be on their list; the hat, the shoe, the handbag, and the jewelry makers do the same thing. The results are disseminated by color cards to all manufacturers of these garments.

Consequently Mrs. John Smith wears a harmoniously toned ensemble. Her frock is rose-beige, trimmed in deeper rose, her hat is rose-beige straw with a deeper rose quill, her shoes are rose-beige and her leather handbag is rose-beige with dull gold trim.

The ensemble note, perfect harmony from top to bottom of an outfit, is an American innovation, said Mrs. Rorke, and the product of the twentieth century efficiency in industry.

"The color ensemble idea is here to stay," Mrs. Rorke says. "It is the most beautiful, and it, alolws for just as much free play of individuality as the old-time riot of colors used to. The American woman brought it, and she is going to see that it is kept."

RELIGIOUS PRIDE--WHERE IS IT NOW?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

VICE PRESIDENT and Mrs. Dawes have a large dictionary of the English language lying conspicously on a table in their living room. The dictionary, which most of us stick away in some remote corner of a book-case and never look at ourselves, is given the place of honor it deserves. And doesn't the honest frankness of displaying so useful a book delight you?

That reminds us of another book that is seldom seen on living room tables. It, too, occupies an inconspicuous place, usually in a bookcase, if it occupies any place at all. Thousands of people never see it from one year's end to the other unless they go into a hotel bedroom.

Is it from delicacy of feeling? Hardly that so much as a shrinking from being thought religious.

As a rule, people do not shrink from being thought intelligent. Consider the average living room table of the day. All the up-to-date smart books are there. Prize novels, high-brow magazines, and biographies—Napoleon, Disraeli, Bismark, and others. Excellent reading, all of it, and a credit to the taste of the American reading public. Perhaps we shall find a volume or two of the old classics also. Most real readers are faithful to old friends.

But isn't there a desire, also, to advertise our knowledge and up-to-dateness? We like our friends to see that we know what's what and who's who in literature.

Why is that other book so seldom found there, the greatest classic, the greatest history, the greatest biography of them all? Why can't we learn to take a pride in our religion as well as our minds?

Two and one-half cups cut rhubarb, ⅔ cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ cup powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, plain pastry.

Beat yolks of eggs with granulated sugar, mixed and sifted with flour. Add prepared rhubarb and stir until thoroughly mixed. Turn into a pie pan lined with plain pastry and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Beat whites of eggs until stiff, beat in powdered sugar and vanilla and pile over top of pie when cool. Bake twelve minutes in a slow oven.

If a meringue is not put on a pie until it is cooled the meringue will not liquidify.

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye dear:

I really meant to say more to you in my last letter about your behavior when Norman got into trouble with your South American friend.

One of the biggest boasts of present day young folks is their sportsmanship, I understand. Now I wonder, Marye, if you consider it good sportsmanship to run away from a fight that you were responsible for? Norman was protecting you, as he saw it. Was it fair to leave him to whatever might happen to him?

Personally I'm glad you had sense enough to realize what on ugly affair you were mixed up in. But I think you ought to admit that it was your fault. You say it wasn't, but don't you see that if you had been tending to your own business—I'll bet you haven't baked a cake for Alan in weeks—those two men wouldn't have had occasion to be fighting each other?

That's something for you to think about when you rebel against the established rules of society. Where would things end without order in the world? It's living our own lives as law and custom has decreed that we shall live them, that we are able to have peace and security.

Imagine for a moment what would happen if the universe suddenly became as disorganized as some of the people on this earth. It sounds preachy-ish, doesn't it, dear? Well it's a sound comparison to the state of affairs that will exist between men and women if the younger generation continues to fly in the face of convention and custom.

If you'd use a litle more imagination and a little less wilfullness, you would better appreciate a home and a chance to live happily. It may seem like happiness to you to live in a whirl of excitement and what I believe you call "free thought." But when it palls, as it is sure to do, you will discover that there is real pleasure to be had in the simple things of life.

All I hope is that you won't be too long finding it out, because something you might do may be too much for Alan to tolerate. If nothing more, that might lead to a series of quarrels that would rob your married life of the peace that makes a truly blessed union. Do think this over, Marye, dear.

Lovingly,
MOM.

NEXT: No thrills in home-making, says Marye.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WELL, since our fine houseboat is done," said Scouty, "we will have some fun. TINYMITES .... ,Jned poés'iklarcl Just think of sailing down this stream in such a dandy craft. I'll be the captain of the crew and tell your Tinies what to do." Then started quite an argument. The woodsman loudly laughed.

"Now, listen, Tinymites!" said he. "Just leave that argument to me. I'll settle it quite quickly, so you will not have a fight. Take turns, while you are on your trip, at being captain of the ship." The Tinies thought this plan was fine and promptly said, "All right."

Then Coppy shouted, "How can we move this big boat out on the sea? It's surely very heavy and we Tinymites are small." The woodsman answered, "Don't you fret. We haven't even tried it yet. We'll all just get behind and push. It won't be hard at all."

They shortly found that he was right, 'cause when they pushed with all their might, the boat began to slowly move across the slippery sand. All of a sudden Clowny stopped to catch his breath. And then he flopped. "Oh, goodness me," yelled Coppy, "you're so clumpsy you can't stand."

"Now, one more push," the woodsman cried, "and we will give this boat a ride upon the nice smooth water. Then you all can hop aboard. Push all together, boys. Heave ho! Ah, that's the way to make it go!" "Hurray! Hurray! It's floating safe and sound," wee Scouty roared.

The woodsman then said, "Now you're set to have a real good time, I'll bet." The Tinies scrambled on the boat with loud and merry cry. Said Scouty, "This is what we love." The woodsman gave the boat a shove and as it drifted down the stream, he smiled and waved good-bye.

(The Tinymites get some food in the next story.)

TURKISH WOMEN IN LABOR FEUD

Constantinople —(AP)—Women have become the cause of labor unrest for the first time in Turkish history in a stormy meeting of the men laborers in the tobacco factories here.

The men demanded that the thousands of Turkish women now working in the factories be dismissed and women labor be henceforth prohibited because of their willingness to work at wages running from one-half to one-third the sum demanded by the men.

The women tobacco manipulators earn an average of 50 cents a day.

ALONG THE LINE

VEGETABLES AND FRUITS HEAD LIST

BY SISTER MARY

Just at this time of year, fresh fruits and vegetables often seen high in price to many of us, but when we look at the question from all angles we must decide that what we spend for fruits and vegetables we save in pills and tonics.

If we will eat our spinach, and carrots, oranges and lemons, as we go along with our meats and pastries, we may forestall that day when our family doctor or specialtist orders "no meats or sweets" over a period of months.

The deliciousness of most fruits seems to put them in the class of luxuries but they have a much more important mission than that of merely increasing the delight of eating.

MOST AGREEABLE METHOD

Due to the nutritional value of the mineral and vitamine content, the consistent use of fruit is one of the most agreeable and effective means of regulating the functions of the body.

The iron in fruits and vegetables is easily absorbed and made available for nutrition. So while the number of grams or iron may not be as large in these foods as in some others, they actually furnish a larger proportion of iron to the body than is generally supposed.

Some years ago the theory that such fruits as oranges and grapefruit and other so-called acid fruit aggravated any rheumatic condition was widespread. However, we now believe that these fruits have an alkaline rather than acid reaction in the blood and are hence an excellent food for the rheumatic sufferer.

BULK IS NEEDED

In any diet composed of much meat, it is particularly essential to include fruit and vegetables. Vegetables add the necessary bulk as well as mineral salts and vitamines, while the fruit counteracts the formation of acids due to eating a large quantity of protein.

Any meal is made more interesting and nutritious by the judicious use of fruit. As a cocktail, the appetite is stimulated and the flow of digestive juices increased. Again, fruit served as a salad with a plain French dressing provides contrast in flavors between meat or the main course and the sweet course. As a final course, fruit is valuable because its acidity stimulates the flow of an alkaline saliva which aids in the prevention of tooth decay.

TEMPT CHILDREN

Dried fruits such as figs, dates, prunes, and raisins, often will solve the sweet problem regarding children. These fruits contain enough sugar to satisfy a child's sweet tooth and at the same time furnish valuable food material not found in candy.

While the stewing of certain fruits makes them more easily digested by children and invalids, it is well to keep in mind that part of their mineral salts and vitamines are lost by the application of heat and water so that large amounts of the cooked fruit are needed to equal the food value of the raw fruit.

This is quite as true with vegetables so when we find some vegetables as palatable "au natural" as cooked it's well to use them raw.

REAL AND FANCIED KIDDIES FAULTS

From "Children—The Magazine for Parents"

Many parents overstress the kind of faults that are annoying to adults, but not seriously threatening to character, such as arise from thoughtlessness. Investigation into the ideas of several thousand school children showed that they regarded such faults as breaking things, tearing their clothes, teasing, whining, neglecting home duties and other similar faults much more seriously than temper, lies, meanness, jealousy—the kind of sins which really do "assault and hurt the soul."

Sickness, death, and even religion are subjects on which grownups often find it hard to meet the searching questions of little children. To express horror or show that one is shocked at the young girls' keen interest in a passing funeral procession only gives the whole subject an undue fascination for her. If one wishes to relieve her mind of excessive perturbation one must force oneself to look at the matter with the clear eyes of youth and let no emotionalism taint one's explanations of whatever it is that is mystifying the child.

When your boy comes to you and tells you he has an idea for remaking the world, do not commit the folly of laughing at him or ridiculing him. Nor the equal folly of getting very enthusiastic over it, for that matter. Help him test it out. Encourage him to dream again, and dream better. Commander Richard E. Byrd resolved in his boyhood to go to the Pole. When still in knee breeches he began to inure himself to the cold.

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE — By ANNE AUSTIN — AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

The summer she is 16, SALLY FORD leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known from the time she was four, to be "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON. At the Carson farm she meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student who is working on the farm during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about David's friendship for Sally, David hits him a terrific blow.

David and Sally run away and join a carnival. David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

NITA, a Hula dancer, becomes infatuated with David and shows her enmity for Sally. Sally tells MRS. BYBEE, wife of the show owner, that her mother once lived in Stanton, the town where the carnival is now showing. The manager's wife agrees to investigate and learn what she can. She returns from her trip to tell Sally that the woman who left her at the orphanage was not her mother, but a maid hired to take the baby from the real mother in New York and disappear. As Sally leaves the Pullman after hearing this news from Mrs. Bybee, she sees Nita and believes she has been eavesdropping.

The last day in Stanton Sally is paralyzed with fear to learn that they are moving next day to the capital city, where she spent so many years in the orphans' home. Knowing that the police are after the mfor the Carson affair, she hurries to tell David they must run away again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

"Poor kid!" David consoled her after her first almost hysterical outburst. "I can't talk to you now and you shouldn't be here. You've got to go back for your last performance. The show has to go on. They've been decent to us and we can't throw them over without warning."

"But David, we've got to run away again!" Sally whimpered, clinging to both his arms, bare to the shoulders in anticiaption of his work in helping to load the carnival for its 30-mile drag to the capital. "We can't go back to Capital City! We'll be caught! Listen, David—"

"Go back to your show tent," David commanded her sternly. "I'll be working pretty late helping to load up, but I'll whistle a bar from 'Always' under your Pullman window. We all sleep on the train tonight and pull out for Capital City some time before morning. We pick up the engine at three o'clock, I believe. Plenty of time then to decide what to do." He shook her a little to make her stop shivering and whimpering with fear. "Buck up, honey! I'm not going to let the police get you; neither is Pop Bybee. Dear little Sally!" and he stooped from his great height to brush the tip of her short, brown-powdered nose with his lips.

During the last performance in the Palace of Wonders a village constable, his star shining importantly from the lapel of his Palm Beach suit, sauntered leisurely through the tent, eyeing the freaks with skeptical amusement and asking all the Smart-Aleck questions which the more timid members of the carnival crowd longed to ask and did not dare.

"Bet you wouldn't let me put any of that glass you're eatin' in my coffee," he guffawed to the ostrich man whom Gus, the barker, was ballyhooing at the moment. "I'm on to all you guys. Rock candy, ain't it?"

"Sure, officer," Gus interrupted his spiel to answer deferentially. "Won't you have a little snack with the human ostrich? I particularly recommend these nails. Boffo eats only the choicest sixpenny nails; will accept no substitutes. And if a nail's rusty, out wit it! Sort of an epicure, Boffo is! Have a handful of glass and nails with Boffo, officer! Bighearted, that's Boffo!"

The constable refused hastily and the crowd roared with delight. The discomfited officer of the law ambled over to make his disparaging inspection of Jan, the giant from Holland.

"Pull up your pants legs and let me see your stilts," the constable ordered authoritatively. "I ain't the sucker you guys think I am. I'm on to your tricks—been going to carnivals man and boy for 50 years."

With his eyes as remote and sad and patient as if he had not heard or understood a word of the constable's insult, Jan obeyed, rolling his trousers to the knees. When the Doubting Thomas representative of the law had pinched the pale, putty-colored flesh of Jan's pitifully thin calves and found them to be flesh-and-blood indeed, he passed on, red of face, furious at the snorts of laughter which filled the tent.

"What if he takes a notion to wash my face?" Sally shivered, bending low, in an attitude of mystic concentration over the crystal which she was pretending to read for a farmer's wife who had no interest in Boffo, the human ostrich, but who did have perfect faith in the powers of "Princess Lalla." "What if he is just pretending to be interested in the other freaks and is really looking for me? Has Nita dared to tip him off that Sally Ford is here?"

But her little sing-song voice droned on, predicting prosperity and happiness and "a journey by land and sea" for the credulous farmer's wife.

"What's your real name, sister?" the constable demanded loudly, officiously, stamping up the steps that led to the little platform.

"Please," Sally pleaded prettily, making her eyes wide and cloudy with mystic vision, "do not een-terr-upt! The veesion she will go away!"

"You let her alone, Sam Pelton!" the farmer's wife commanded tartly. "Go on, Princess Lalla. I think you're just wonderful—knowing about my mother being dead and even her name and all."

And Sally continued the reading with Constable Pelton breathing audibly upon her neck as she bent her small head gravely over the crystal. When she could think of nothing else to tell the highly pleased woman, she was desperate. It seemed to her that everyone in the tent was looking at her, reading panic in her trembling fingers, in her fluttering eyelids.

"Gimme a knock-down to my past, present and future, Sister," the constable suggested with heavy sarcasm and joc ularity. "Reckon an officer of the law don't have to pay. And you'd better make it a good one, or I'll run you in for obtaining money under false pretenses. Come on, now! Miz Holtzman has already give you a good tip-off, and I guess my star speaks for itself. Knowing my name and my business, you oughta be able to fake a pretty good line for me, but if you don't tell me my wife's name, how many kids I got, where I come from, and anything else I'm a-mind to ask you, I'll make you a present of free board and lodging at the county's expense."

Unknown to Sally, whose eyes were fixed, blind with fear, upon the crystal tightly cupped in her ice-cold palms, Gus, the barker, had drawn near enough to hear the constable's threats and demands.

"Sure, officer!" he boomed heartily, to Sally's amazement, "just ask the lady anything you like. She sees all, knows all. Step right up, folks, and hear Princess Lalla, favorite crystal-gazer to the Sultan of Turkey before she escaped from his harem, tell you fellow-townsman, Constable Sam Pelton, the truth, the whole truth and something besides the truth—a few things that are going to happen to him that Officer Sam don't yet dream of! Step right up, folks! Don't be bashful! Step up and get an earful about your esteemed fellow-townsman and officer of the law—"

Sally felt the ice melting slowly in her veins. Dear Gus! He was stalling, gaining time, subtly frightening the constable, whose face had gone redder and redder, whose eyes glanced with furtive unease from the crystal to the grinning faces of his "fellow-townsmen," who apparently had no great love for Constable Sam Pelton.

Then that which Gus had arranged by means of a code signal took place. Two "schillers," hastily summoned by a carnival employe, suddenly broke into loud curses and sharp, slapping blows which echoed in the instantly quiet tent.

"Pick my pocket, would you?" the raucous voice of a "schiller" demanded between slaps and punches. "I seen you—sneakin' your hand in my pocket!"

Constable Pelton, glad to be able to assert his authority, glad also, possibly, to escape a too intimate revelation of his past, bounded from the platform, collared the fighting "schillers," and dragged them triumphantly away.

When the last stragglers of the carnival crowd had been ushered rather unceremoniously from the tent, Sally rose from her chair and pattered swiftly to where Gus the barker, stood talking with Pop Bybee, owner and manager of Bybee's Bigger and Better Carnival.

"Thank you, Gus! I was scared nearly to death! It was wonderful the way you stalled along till those two rubes—" she was already becoming familiar with carnival lingo—"got into a fight. Wasn't it lucky for me they did?" she added naively.

"Hell, kid!" Gus grinned at her and tilted his derby more rakishly over his left eye. "It was a frameup. Them's our boys. The guy that pretended to have his pocket picked will swear he made a mistake, and the worst old Sam can do is to have 'em fined for disorderly conduct. I'll square it with 'em, and they'll be in Capital City by show time tomorrow."

Pop Bybee chuckled richly, his bright, pale blue eyes gleaming in the lobster-red expanse of his old face. "Didn't I tell you, child, that the law couldn't touch you long as you stuck with the carnival? Dave tells me you're babbling about running away again because we're hitting the trail for your home town tonight. You stick, Sally. Pop Bybee and Gus and the rest of us will take care of you."

Sally's lips parted to tell him if Nita's threat to tip off the police if she did not relinquish her claim upon David's love and friendship, but before the first word tumbled out, the old inhibition against tattling taught her in the stern school of life in an orphanage, restrained her.

"You're all so good to me," she choked, then turned abruptly away to where "Pitty Sing," the midget, was impatiently awaiting her human sedan-chair.

"I don't want to influence you unduly," the midget piped in her prim, high little voice, "but Mr. Bybee and Gus are right. You are safer with the carnival than anywhere else in the state, and if you ran away I should be very sorry. I like you, Sally. I like you very much."

The dress tent was taken down by the "white hopes" almost before the women performers had had time to change from show clothes to nightgowns and kimonos. By 12 o'clock the lot was as bare of tents and booths and ferris wheels and motordromes and "whips" and merry-go-rounds as if those mechanical symbols of joy and fun had never existed.

And Sally lay on the lumpy, smelly mattress of her upper berth in the ancient Pullman car, waiting for her David's whistled signal — a bar of "Always." She was fully dressed.

Her heart sang the words—"I'll be loving you—always! Not for just an hour, not for just a day, not for just a year, but—always!"

She could have sent word to David by Gus or Pop Bybee that she had given up her frantic plan to run away; that he need not meet her in the darkness of the pulsing, hot June night. But—she had not—

Came then—clear and true the whistled notes of the song which her heart sang to David—"I'll be loving you — always!"

She edged over the side of the berth, the toe of her slipper groping until it found the edge of the lower berth in which the midget was sleeping. When she was safe in the aisle she cast a fearful glance up and down the car, and noted with uneasy surprise that Nita's berth, directly opposite the midget's was still unoccupied, the green curtains spread wide so that the grayish white blur of the sheet and pillow was plainly discernible in the faint light from the one electric globe over the door.

But she had no time now to worry about Nita or Nita's threats. David was awaiting her—with the song still humming its sweet, extravagant promise in his heart. Or—was it? Had he chosen the song idly? Had he meant anything by that teasing kiss on the tip of her nose, by his "dear little Sally?"?

"Being in love hurts something terrible," Sally shook her head at her own turbulent emotions, unconsciously employing the homely language of the orphanage. "But even if he doesn't love me I'm glad I love him. David, David!"

(To Be Continued)

Sally hears the words she has been longing for from David's lips. In the next chapter.

TOTS TOLD TO USE POLICEMEN

Policemen should be used, according to Head Constable Johnson, who is head of the police force in Belfast, Ireland. In an address to school children on traffic dangers recently, he advised children to call on an officer when they wished to cross a busy street. "If he does not pay any attention to you" Johnson said, "pull the leg of his trousers. Don't be afraid of him. He will stop the traffic in necessary, so that you can get across the street. It is his duty to do so."

The founder of the Salvation Army was General William Booth, an English clergyman.

The Wee Warnings

THE flutter of tiny tickbirds warns shortsighted old Thickhide that there's trouble in the offing.

When your motor gets about so old—not necessarily in years but in service age—you'll sense the wee warnings bidding you to seek safer ground.

There's the faint whish of failing compression. Now and again a valve balks. The timing doesn't stay put as long as it used to. There's the trifling falling off all around in the old power, pep, pick-up and pull.

Surely as can be, your motor does reach that point where the use of better fuel is no longer a choice but an outright necessity for proper — or even tolerable — performance.

TAKING THE MYSTERY OUT OF FOX FARMING

SINCE the beginning of time, the commercial value of any product has been determined by its sale for money. Silver Fox is a fur of outstanding beauty. It cannot be imitated. Nothing can take its place—and it brings a price upon the fur markets of the world in keeping with its position.

Fox farming is simply the application of scientific principles in order to produce a strain of fox which will bring the top market price because of superior markings and characteristics. There is no more mystery about it than there is in raising fine cattle or horses, but because of the natural economic laws of supply and demand, it is so profitable that people are apt to distrust the industry. It is unfortunate and altogether unwarranted.

As an investment, fox farming has three fundamentals that insure it as a profitable enterprise—first, an ever-increasing demand and small supply; second, a wide margin between the cost of production and the selling price; and third, a market that has been established for generations — a market reached without selling cost.

The Associated Fur Farms, Inc. is a Wisconsin corporation, organized and operated under the laws of the state. It was originally founded to raise and market Silver Fox. Numerous requests for the purchase of our "Silver Moon Strain" fox, which is among the finest in the country, has led us to offer part of our herd for out-right sale or purchase on our "cooperative" ranching plan. We will be pleased to discuss this arrangement with you and to show the pen records and pedigrees of each of our animals.

There is a wealth of authentic evidence of the profits in the fox raising industry at your command. We invite you to visit our ranch at New Holstein, Wis. It is always open for your inspection.

Book Of Knowledge

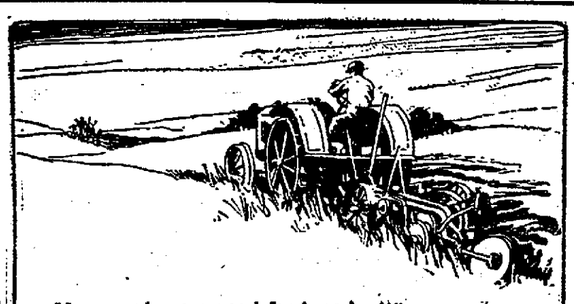
Field to Mill

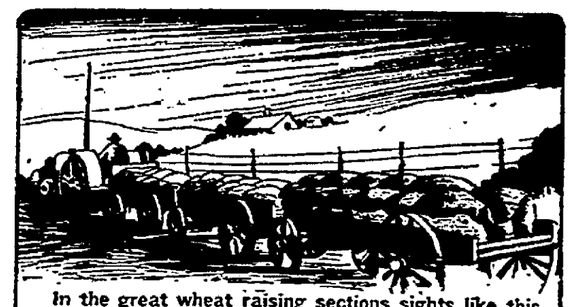


Many grains are used for bread. When people can afford it, they generally prefer wheat, but many other grains are eaten. Corn, rye, oats, millet, barley, durra and rice are all ground up and used for making bread. Here men are employed in plowing land for wheat in the northwest, which raises most of the wheat we use and export.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

Here is an ordinary reaper in action. Sometimes four or five are hitched to a tractor, which does the work much more quickly.

This threshing machine separates the wheat kernels from the straw or chaff. Through the great pipe the chaff is blown into a great stack.



In the great wheat raising sections sights like this are common. The wheat has been weighed and the bags sewed up. Horses, or a traction engine, draw it to the railroad. It may be ground into flour there, or may be taken to a mill elsewhere, or perhaps may cross the ocean. The motor truck has supplanted the horse in most big farm districts.

MANY STELLAR PERFORMERS IN LITTLE FOUR TRACK MEET

Contest Expected To Be Closest For State Rivals In Several Track Seasons

Carroll, Slight Favorite, With Ripon and Lawrence Also Given Chances

What is expected to be the closest collegiate track and field meet ever held in Wisconsin colleges, no matter which school finally is crowned champion, is scheduled for Saturday at Whiting Athletic Field with the first annual contest of the newly-formed Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Association. Athletes of Lawrence, Ripon, Carroll and Beloit will compete here with the first champion of the new conference favored to be one of the first three named. Beloit also is given an outside chance though weak in track this year.

Based on past season performances Carroll is a slight favorite with Ripon and the Vikings ready to crash through if the Pioneers fall down in any of their pet events. Lawrence will score heaviest in dashes and Ripon and Carroll, especially the former in the field events. In the hurdles Carroll has the edge and the Pioneers also have uncovered a few sensational distance men who will wreck part of the big hopes Lawrence had in those events. Beloit will score mostly in the field events led by Rigby and Wittenberg, weightman and jumper.

The best events of the meet with the closest races and most sensational finishes are expected to be the distances and possibly the 440. The mile and half-mile will be the big events, records show.

MANY STAR MILERS

This season has been an exceptional year for milers, more distance men of the four rival colleges running the event close to 4:40 than for many, many moons. Three of the men entered in the meet have consistent records of 4:41 and with all three competing against each other that mark should be cut down somewhat and 4:41 already is an exceedingly good record. The leader in the event and the favorite to cop is Mountner of Carroll. The other stars are Menning of Lawrence, 1927 champion in the event, and Hobart of Beloit.

The half-mile brings together men who have made the distance consistently in 2:03 for another great battle. They are led by Mountner again with Menning and Smith of Ripon and the other stars. In the quarter Rude of Ripon, a consistent :53 man is favored, Don Hyde losing out because of bad legs this year which have raised his time, but do not effect him in the shorter dashes. Other leaders are Podolske of Carroll and Hobart, Beloit.

The dashes should have Freeman of Ripon the favorite by a slight margin over Kempthorne Carroll, and the Hyde twins, Lawrence. Spangler of Beloit also is strong. In the hurdles Lomas of Carroll; once Fox River Valley Conference champion while at West Green Bay, is an easy favorite, with Doug Hyde, Lawrence, Stam, Ripon and Donocan, Beloit, as outstanding contenders in the lows. In the highs Lomas' competition will come form Stam and Donovan, Lawrence having no strong man.

POLE VAULT WEEK

The two-mile should be another good race with Schley of Carroll, the strongest contender and Wolf of Lawrence next in line. Other leaders are Gillespie, Beloit, and Robinson, Ripon. The pole vault is the weakest event of the meet with none of the entries going consistently over 10½ feet. Red Martin of Ripon is the favorite followed by Krohn of Carroll and Wittenberg, Beloit. Lawrence may win a place with Cannon and Scott.

Capt. Lomas of Carroll again is favored in the high and broad jumps. In the high his strongest competition will come from Teske and Williams, Ripon, with Wittenberg and Ellis of Lawrence trailing. In the broad Freeman, Ripon, Ellis and Pope, Lawrence and Wittenberg will bother Lomas.

In the discus, another event in which there has been a great year and 120 feet is liable to be passed several times, Ripon has a decided edge with three leading stars, Hein, Sneider and Oliver, all exceptional heavers. Rassmussen of Carroll is a star. Other competition will come from Kuick and Miller, Beloit and Humphrey and Jessup, Lawrence. Rassmussen and Reinders, Carroll, lead the shot putters with Schneider, Ripon, and Ott, Lawrence, in the race. Rigby and Kuick, Beloit, also must be counted in.

Rassmussen, Carroll, is the outstanding javelin man. He still holds the Fox Valley record made in 1928 in Appleton, while competing for West Green Bay, 160 feet 3 inches, though it will be broken at Manitowoc Saturday. Rigby of Beloit, a consistent winner all last year this year and last as well, will force him to the limit. Other leaders are Hein and Heinz of Ripon and Rassmussen and McInnis of Lawrence.

BLUE RELAY FAVORITE

Lawrence would be an easy favorite in the relay, because of its great showing this year including breaking the state record three times and setting a new record for the Hamline University relays, but for one fact. Brussat, former Washington high sprint star, has been ill and his physician won't allow him to take part in any more track events this year. His place is being taken by Ellis, and though this weakens the team somewhat, the Vikings still have hopes of a victory, but not the expected easy triumph. The Hyde twins and Pope are the other team members. Carroll and Ripon, especially the latter, also have strong teams and the event may be between Ripon and Lawrence.

One of Year's Surprise

The play of Outfield Langford, Cleveland rookie, has been one of the baseball season's sensations. He has hit hard and timely and has fielded nicely for the Indians.

Home of Big Leaguers

Somerville, Mass., is becoming known as the home of big league ball players. Pie Traynor, Danny MacFayden, Shanty Hogan, Horace Ford, Lew Fonseca, Haskell Billings and Bill Barrett are some Somerville products in the majors.

CLIMB OF RED SOX SURPRISE OF GAME

Work of Bill Carrigan Is Appreciated by Boston Fans

The recent climb out of the cellar by Bill Carrigan's Boston Red Sox has proven a most pleasant surprise to baseball fans throughout the country.

Long achronic cellar champion, the Boston club finally has risen in its wrath to smite the opposition in enough games to boost itself into the first division.

Fans who remember Bill Carrigan in his playing days with the old Red Sox are more than gratified at the team's success. They are pulling for a lengthy stay of the present prosperity.

Carrigan's patience with his pitchers seems to be paying dividends. The Red Sox are getting better pitching at present than they have been since he took over the club. In Ed Morris and Merle Settlemire, who were obtained from Mobile this spring, the Sox found the material to round out an effective hurling corps.

Big Charley Ruffing seems to have come to life after an indifferent year and the work of Danny MacFayden and Jack Russell has been more than pleasing to the Boston management.

When Walter Gerber was obtained from the Browns, the Red Sox started their upward climb. A big weakness of the team has been its inability to make double plays, but with Gerber at short the defensive play of the team perked up immensely. Gerber, in his waning days as a big leaguer, is still a competent shortstop and is just what the team needed to set them off for a climb to better things.

GOPHER JUNIOR LEADS BIG TEN IN LINKS EVENT

Columbus—(AP)— With a two-point lead after the first 36 holes of play, Lester Bolstad, Minnesota junior, was the odds-on favorite to retain his Big Ten golf crown Friday.

Although a trifle off his usual form, Bolstad shot the two 18 hole rounds over the Scioto course in 18 and 78 for a total card of 159 Thursday. Alfred Sargent, Ohio State star, was second with cards of 81 and 80 for a total of 161. Lehman of Purdue and Connor of Michigan were tied for third with cards of 162.

Ohio State, with all four members of its team playing consistent golf, led the team scoring with a total of 665 for the 36 holes. Illinois was second with 675 and Northwestern third with 676.

Loses Job at First

Sensational hitting and fielding by Fonseca won him a job at first base over Burns with Cleveland this year.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR TOD

Tod Morgan, reigning junior lightweight champion had the narrowest kind of escape from losing his crown Thursday night at Madison Square Gardens when he met Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, former bantam champion. Reports gave the champ seven rounds and Martin six and two were even. Morgan had the edge in the early rounds but were down under a battering drive of Martin's only to rally sufficiently in the final round to cop the battle.

TOD MORGAN HOLDS CROWN IN CLOSE GO

Eddie Martin, Former Banty Champ, Gives Titlist Great Battle

New York—(AP)—Tod Morgan, Seattle battler, mused Friday upon how narrowly he escaped joining the company of those known as former junior lightweight champions.

While less than 6,000 fans looked on apathetically, Morgan successfully defended his 130-pound crown against the dogged, bull-like rushes of Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, one-time king of the bantamweights, in a 15-roun bout at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Tod's margin of victory, however, was of the closest. The Associated Press score card gave Morgan seven rounds and Martin six with two even.

Slow afoot and short of arm, Martin staked his whole battle for the title on a body-attack. In he rushed, taking the champion's short jabs in order to get a chance to pound away at Morgan's body.

For the first few rounds the sharp-shooting Pacific coast star had all the better of the milling, catching the challenger coming in, with sharp left jabs and right uppercuts. Undaunted, the former bantamweight champion never stopped plunging in. After the first half of the battle, the pendulum swung to Martin as Morgan tired under the challenger's charging tactics.

On even terms as the fifteenth round opened, Morgan saved his crown by a brilliant rally that had Martin groggy as the final bell ended the milling. There were no knockdowns but both were bleeding profusely at the end.

TOLEDO MUDHENS WIN 12TH IN ROW

Stengel's Big League Castoffs Ride from Cellar to Near Lead

Chicago—(AP) — Surrounded by a group of veteran major league castoffs like himself Manager Casey Stengel has his Toledo Mudhens in full gallop toward first place in the American Association flag race.

Riding on a crest of 12 straight victories, Toledo has arisen from the cellar to a tie for fourth place with Minneapolis Friday. The Hens are only two and a half games away from first place. Most of the victories, too, have been on the road, the last being over Louisville, 7 to 5, Thursday.

BREWERS LOSE TOP

St. Paul sat atop the standings alone again Friday, having downed Milwaukee Thursday 9 to 5, to gain an even break in the four-game series.

Kansas City emerged from its disastrous batting slump with a crash and Minneapolis was victimized, 11 to 0. The Blues gathered 14 hits and scored eight runs in the fourth inning.

With Myers on the mound and yielding seven scattered hits, Columbus took the third game of the Indianapolis series, 5 to 1.

Worrying About White Sox

After one month of play, during which the White Sox made a very sorry showing, fans of the Windy City started asking for reasons why the Comiskey team was losing so many games.

Chicago—Joey Medill, Chicago, and Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ill. drew (10.)

FIVE CHAMPIONS BACK TO DEFEND VALLEY LAURELS

Seven Titles Taken Last Year in Fox Conference Defended by Winners

Five champions of the 1927 Fox River Valley Conference Track and Field meet, winners of seven first places in the events, will be back Saturday to defend their laurels when the 1928 conference contest is held at Manitowoc. Champions of five of last year's twelve events, a minority, have graduated. The five champions back this year include Johnston of Appleton, who won three titles in 1927 to bring the first-place winner list to seven.

Only two of the returning champs, winners in four events, are fairly certain of retaining their titles. Johnston is almost a sure winner in his three pet events, the 100-yard dash, broad jump and shot put with the first named the least certain as Frick of Manitowoc pushed him exceedingly close here a few weeks ago to make him run the distance in his best time, 10.2. Herber is fairly certain to win the discuss, though Kruse, if going well, may push him.

Other returning champs of last year are Peterson, Marinette, who tied for first in the high jump; Neller, Appleton, tied for first in the pole vault and Gallenberger, West, first in the high hurdles. Peterson is expected to lose to Schreiber of Manitowoc and possibly Kabat of West and two Oshkosh high stars. Neller will have a tough battle with Martin of East and his own teammate, Strutz. Gallenberger has been beaten twice this year, in the Valley relay carnival and in a triangular meet by Towsley of Manitowoc his deadliest rival last year and he may succumb again Saturday.

Here's a list of place winners in all events last year who are back this year to try for just as high or higher places.

100-yard dash—Johnston, Appleton, first; Frick, Manitowoc, third. 220-yard dash-no winners of last year. 440-yard dash-No winners of last year. Half-mile—Roemer, Appleton, second (now a leading contender for the 440 championship), Kunitz, Appleton, fourth (now entered in the dash events).

Mile run-Brady, Manitowoc, fourth. High jump—Peterson, Marinette, tied for first. Broad jump—Johnston, Appleton, first; Klaus, East, fourth. Pole vault—Neller, Appleton, tied for first; Bouchette, Oshkosh, tied for third. Shot put—Johnston Appleton, first; Herber, West, third; Kruse, Appleton, fourth. Discus—Herber, West, first; Kruse, Appleton, second. Javelin—W. Becker East, second; Herber, West third; Andrew, Fond du Lac, fourth.

120-yard high hurdles—Gallenberger West, first; Towsley, Manitowoc, second; Jensen, East, third. 220-yard low hurdles— No winners of last year. No members of winning Manitowoc relay team back.

LAWRENCE TENNIS MEN SWAMP OSHKOSH SQUAD

Lawrence college tennis stars continued their streak, which has been unbroken since the first loss of the season to the strong Marquette University team, by whipping the Oshkosh Teachers college netters, in a return match Thursday at Oshkosn. Like in the first match here, the Vikinds whitewashed the Teachers, winning 7-0. It was the fourth Blue victory in five meets, but the Vikings encountered their next hardest competition to Marquette here Friday afternoon, meeting their strongest college foe, Carroll of Waukesha. The Oshkosh meet was advanced from its scheduled date, Saturday.

The scores for the singles were:

Remmel of Lawrence beat McDaniels, 9-7 and 6-1; Hanson beat Johnson, 6-3 and 7-5; Parker beat Clow, 6-3 and 6-4; Schneller downed Ross, 6-1 and 6-4; and Krause defeated Cardiff, 6-4 and 6-1.

In the doubles, McDaniels and Johnson of Oshkosh were beaten by Schneller and Remmel of Lawrence, 6-2 and 7-5; and Ross and Clow of Oshkosh were downed, 6-1 and 6-3, by Hanson and Parker of Lawrence.

PERMANENT GREENS AT RIVERVIEW ARE OPENED

Permanent greens at Riverview Country club will be opened for the first time this season Saturday when the first tourney of the 1928 season of the club will be held, according to Oscar Riches, club professional. The greens are in fine shape for the opening, the pro said. The tourney will be a ball sweepstakes for men, 18 holes of medal play with handicaps.

Who Said He Couldn't?

Those who thought Lloyd Waner played way over his head last season may be surprised to know that he batted better the first month this season than he did last year. He hit .253 in his first 83 times up last year and .349 in his first 83 times up this season.

Appleton High Slight Favorite Over Rivals In Valley Track Meet

Hardest Competition for Orange Athletes Comes from Manitowoc, West Bay

Manitowoc—Coach Joe Shield's Appleton track team by virtue of its victories in the indoor meet at Green Bay, dual meet with Manitowoc, showing in the conference relays and Lawrence prep meet, is given an edge in the annual Rox River Valley Conference Track and Field meet, Saturday at Manitowoc. Due to very keen competition, several records are expected to be lowered, especially in the field events. Manitowoc and Green Bay West also have well-balanced teams, and are conceded a good chance to finish ahead. The other schools that will cut into the scoring are: Oshkosh, Green Bay East, and Marinette.

It is planned to have a grand parade of all the athletes, coaches and officials from each of the schools, led by the local high school band. Mr. Mals, band director, has been busy with the bandmen, getting ready for the occasion, and promises a lively musical program throughout the afternoon.

JOHNSTON, NELLER, ROEMER

Appleton's main threat comes in the personage of Johnston who specializes in the 100 yd, dash, broad jump, and shot put. In the latter he is sure to better the conference record of 43 feet 8 inches as his puts in the relay meet and Manitowoc dual meet were 46 feet 1¼ inches, and 44 feet 2 inches, respectively. Neller has been vaulting 10 feet and over, and in his last contest he made 10 feet 9 inches. Roemer, quarter-miler, with a mark of 54.4 seconds as compared with the conference mark of 55:8 seconds, has an excellent chance of establishing a new record.

Frick, Manitowoc, will furnish plenty of opposition for Johnston, Appleton in the century; consequently the record of 10.5 seconds ought to be lowered. Frick is the favorite in the 220 yd. dash. Schmidt, Manitowoc along with Sharpe, West, are out to give Roemer plenty of competition in the quarer-mile. Towsley, hurdler, Schreiber, high jumper and javelin thrower and Brady, miler, are expected to contribute heavily toward Manitowoc's total score.

BATLEY IN HALF MILE

In the discus Herber is the favorite. He threw the discus 120 feet 8 inches at the recent relay carnival and is expected to better his old standing mark of an even 116 feet. Schreiber of Manitowoc has already thrown the javelin 181 feet 8 1-2 inches but will find plenty of opposition from Herber. Borchers because of his showing in the last dual meet is the favorite in the mile run. Maloney of West, Aleckson of Manitowoc, and Batley of Appleton will feature in a battle for honors in the half-mile.

Outstanding for Oshkosh is Tadych, a hurdler and high jumper. For Marinette, Lund, dash man and Dionne, javelin thrower, will try to cut into the scoring.

Following are the conference records for each event: 100-yard dash—Johnston, Appleton; time, 10.5. 200-yard dash—Hughes, Manitowoc: time, 23.5. 440-yard dash—Fischl, Manitowoc; time, 55.8. Shot put—Johnston, Appleton; distance, 43 ft. 8 in. High jump—Orlebeck, Sheboygan; height, 5 ft. 10 1-2 in. 880-yard run—Schroeder, Manitowoc; time, 2:07.5. Pole vault—Hussin, West, and Neller, Appleton; height, 9 ft. 11 in. Mile run—Novarre, Appleton; time, 4:59.2. Discus—Herber, West: distance, 116 ft. 120-yard high hurdles—Gallenberger, West; time, 17.8. Broad jump—Johnston, Appleton; distance 21 ft. 1 1-2 in. 220-yard low hurdles — Cole, West; time, 28.3. Javelin — Rasmussen, West; distance, 162 ft. 3 in.

BUNION DERBY REACHES NEXT TO LAST CONTROL

Suffern, N. Y.—(AP)— Nearing the end of the rainbow, C. C. Pyle's cross-country bunioners had their eyes set on Passaic, N. J., Friday, the next to the last control of the long trek across the continent.

More than 17 hours behind Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., John Salo prepared to do his best to set the pace for the field for the lap into Passaic, his home town.

Thursday's lap from Middletown to Suffern, 38 miles, saw Payne increase his lead over Salo by four minutes.

The day's leader, however, was Seth Gonzales, of Denver, who covered the distance in 4:59:27 and established himself in fifteenth place in the standing.

YANKS, ATHLETICS SPLIT FIRST BOUT IN CRUCIAL SCRAP

Champions Win Opener from Grove, but Ossie Orwoll Holds Them in Nightcap

The first two battles of the American League's initial "crucial series" of the season finds the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics no better and no worse than they were before the opening shot was fired.

Before 41,000 cash customers and thousands of others who occupied points of vantage outside Shibe park, the two leaders Thursday split even in the first two games of a six-game series.

The attendance set a new record for Philadelphia. Ten thousand wild-eyed fans vainly sought to push their way into the park which was already filled to capacity. Riot calls brought additional police to the scene in an effort to rescue order.

The champions pounded Robert Moses Grove, Connie Mack's star southpaw, hard and often to take the opener, 9 to 7 but Ossie Orwoll held the Yankees to six hits in the nightcap and the Athletics raced in to a 5 to 2 victory. Babe Ruth's fourteenth homer of the season and Tony Lazzari's first represented the sum total of the Yankees scoring.

Lazzari pounded in six runs in the first game. Despite the fact that Grove had an off-day the southpaw was permited to remain in the game until the eighth inning. Powers and Ehmke finishing. Georgo Pipgrass lost his first game of the year in the nightcap, the Athletics bunching hits off him in the sixth and seventh to score all their runs. Speaker drove in three of them with a double and a single.

Bob Fothergill's double with two men on base in the twelfth enabled the Detroit Tigers to score a 6 to 4 win over the White Sox at Chicago. Johnny Mostil, great Sox fly-chaser, was knocked unconscious when a thrown ball struck him between the eyes. He expects to return to the lineup Saturday.

The St. Louis Browns took a sloppy game from the Indians at Cleveland, 12 to 9. Sam Gray went the route for the Browns despite the fact that he allowed 18 hits. Twelve hits were turned into as many runs by the Browns. Lou Blue got four of them.

CUBS DROP TO THIRD

The St. Louis Cardinals pushed their way to within half a game of the National League lead by beating the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 1, for their fourth straight victory. Holm and Bottomley hit home runs while Douthit contented himself with a single, double and triple. Flint Rhem pitched a strong game for the winners.

Jess Petty, recently suspended for breaking training rules, returned to the Brooklyn mound and shut out the New York Giants with three hits, 3 to 0. Leslie Mann, who dotes on southpaws got two of the three safeties Petty granted. Fitzsimmons gave the Robins only six safeties but poor support sent the Giants down to defeat.

The Pirates gave the Chicago Cubs their fourth straight set-back at Pittsburg, 6 to 2. Artie Nehf lasted until the fifth despite a four-run rally by the Corsairs in the fourth.

Cohan's Prize Souvenir

One of the most prized possessions of George M. Cohan, of theatrical fame, is an old sweater once worn by the late Terry McGovern, the fighter.

Will Help Olympic Squad

Fidel La Barba, retired flyweight champion and now a Stanford freshman, will appear in a boxing bout to aid in rasing funds for the Olympics when the trials are held in Los Angeles June 16.

English Class Split On 'Single Standard' Issue

Its a man's world. Woman casts her vote on election Tuesday, woman sits behind mahogany desks in executive offices, woman writes "Dr." instead of "Mrs." before her name and brings home pay envelopes as thick as her husband's. But these are only surface improvements in her status, if the viewpoint of Professor Warren Beck's English literature class of Lawrence college is taken as even a slight indication of the viewpoints of college men throughout the United States. Judging from the opinion of the majority of men in this class, tolerance may be all very well in prohibition, religion, taxation and the color of one's neckties, but when it comes to woman—the double standard of morals still reigns.

Their views on this subject was called out during a discussion of "Tess of the D'Ubervilles," Hardy's heroine who was betrayed by one man, and later loved by another for what he thinks she is. Although he has just confessed a similar transgression and been forgiven on their wedding night, when she tells him of her past, he cannot pardon her and leaves her.

There are approximately fifteen women in the class and practically every one during the discussion said that she, in a situation similar to that of Tess, would forgive her husband. Of the six men in the class, four emphatically declared they would never forgive the woman. One, a preacher in his spare time, said that the sin in a woman is greater than in a man. Another, a prominent debater, said men fall in love with their ideals of woman, not with the woman, and once the ideal is shattered, love for the woman goes too. Only one man in the class, besides the instructor, defended the single standard. And one man only—an athlete—kept silent.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

We are continuing today the consideration of building situations both simple and complex.

TODAY'S HAND

♠A-X-X-X
♥A-10-X-X
♦A-J-X-X
♣X

Three questions concerning the above hand; score love-all. How many can you answer? Make up your mind before reading the answers.

1. What should South (Dealer) declare holding the above hand?
2. What should North (Third Hand) declare with it; South having bid one Diamond and west having passed?
3. What should East (Fourth Hand) declare with it; South having bid one Club, West having doubled and North having passed?

THE ANSWERS

1. One Diamond. No Trump is not advisable because of the worthless singleton in Clubs; neither Major is strong enough to bid. But the hand is too strong to pass and the Diamond suit is slightly stronger than either of the Majors; also there is less danger in bidding a weak four-card Minor than bidding a weak four-card Major.

2. Two Diamonds: there is a good chance of game at Diamonds with this hand to assist an initial Diamond bid. No Trump is tempting because South, starting with a Diamond bid with out the Ace or Jack of that suit, surely has King-Queen of Diamonds and at least one other trick. If that trick be in the Club suit, No Trump doubtless would work well, but if it be the King-Queen of either Spades or Hearts the No Trump might be disastrous. The bid of two Diamonds, instead of a pass or a pre-empting bid, is made to give South the opportunity of making a secondary Major bid if he have a long weak Major.

3. One Heart. West, by his double, has asked East to bid a Major suit if he have a four-card Major and also to bid the stronger if he have two four-card Majors. As East's Hearts are stronger than his Spades, he names that suit. At one time a few experts contended that, with Majors of equal length, Spades always should be given the preference over Hearts in answering a partner's informatory double; but more lately common sense has recognized that, as game can be made equally well with either Major, the important thing is to show the stronger Major.

REGISTRATION CARDS STILL BEING SORTED

Sorting of the yellow registration cards in alphabetical order will be completed by clerks in the city clerk's office within a few days. The cards are kept on file in the clerk's office. The white cards were filed in order of street and number immediately after registration closed and were used as a check at the polling booth during election. Those persons who never have registered may do so at the clerk's office anytime.

Utilize Radio To Give Story Of Conventions

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP) — The air again will carry the story of a republican national convention when the 1928 gathering opens here June 12.

Broadcast stations in all sections of the country, as in 1924 when the Cleveland convention was the first to have a radio audience, are preparing to join in giving a word-by-word account of the incidents that lead up to the selection of the party candidates.

Microphones will be so placed that the voices of the speakers will be audible through receivers almost anywhere, as short waves will be used on some of the broadcasts. Descriptive matter will be given by announcers whose voices are well known.

Probably a hundred or more stations, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, will be hooked up on either one of the two chains that have pickup apparatus in the convention hall. In addition to the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system, WGN, Chicago, has been granted permission to broadcast. Similar plans are expected to be made for the democratic national convention at Houston, Tex.

In charge of the National microphones will be Graham McNamee.

Major Andrew J. White, another pioneer announcer, will officiate for the Columbia chain. WGN probably will have Quin Ryan as its chief talker.

While a complete list of stations expected to participate is not available, a compilation shows that upwards of 75 have made tentative arrangements to add their audiences to the visible gallery in the convention hall. Others are expected to swell this number.

Included in the list are these stations: WADC, Akron, O.; WSB, Atlanta; WBAL, WCAO, Baltimore, Md.; WBZA, WEEI, WNAC, Boston; WGR, WMAK, Buffalo; WBT, Charlotte, N. C.; KYW, WGN-WLIB, WEBH, WMAQ - WQJ, Chicago; WKRC WLW, WSAI, Cincinnati; WTAM, WEAR, Cleveland; WAIU, Columbus; KOIL, Council Bluffs, Ia.; WFAA, Dallas; WOC, Davenport, Ia.; KOA, Denver; WHO, Des Moines, Ia.; WGHP, WJR, WWJ, Detroit; WOWO, Ft. # SELECTION OF WOMAN AS CUSTOMS JUDGE IS UP BEFORE COOLIDGE

Life Job at $10,000 a Year Seems Likelihood for Miss Genevieve Cline

Cleveland, O.—Women of this modern day have so permeated all the professions and businesses that it's becoming increasingly difficult for any woman nowadays to be the "First Woman" in any particular line.

Miss Genevieve R. Cline of Cleveland became the "First Woman Customs Appraiser" when President Harding appointed her to the Cleveland port in 1922.

She will become the "First Woman U. S. Customs Court Judge," and automatically the first and only federal woman judge in the whole country if—and when—her nomination to the New York U. S. Customs Court by President Coolidge is confirmed by the Senate within a few days.

This is a $10,000-a-year-for-life job. It is one of the highest priced jobs ever offered to a woman.

Her Honor Judge Genevieve Cline would become by this appointment just about the most important woman in the country's public official life.

And if the nimination is confirmed, Judge Cline, according to her associates, will owe it to "nothing but hard work and a sense of fair play that any woman in public life must give today."

BROTHER STARTED CAREER

It all began some 25 years ago, however, when Genevieve Cline, just beginning to grow up and wondering about a career, was taken night after night by her brother, an attorney, to tent mass-meetings where the tariff question was being debated.

"Tariff," her brother told his schoolgirl sister, "is just about the most important question of the day and will become increasingly so. Everyone should find out all there is to know about it."

The tent tariff fights proved so interesting that Genevieve Cline decided to be an attorney, specializing in tariff law.

"I owed my 'career' determination to a mother far ahead of her time," Miss Cline says, "a mother who always said that her daughter should be trained for some specific profession, just as much as her sons."

Miss Cline has never in her public life worked as "a woman." She has never as customs appraiser felt any more interest or skill in handling lustrous silks, brocades, beautiful bits of pottery and glass, imported cakes and other delicacies than in examining massive machinery or the most delicate surgical instruments.

But her men associates, the boys who unpack the dramatic variety of merchandise which comes into Cleveland from the four corners of the earth, and the examiners themselves, insist that their superior has "a woman's instinct," especially when it comes to sniffing out smuggled goods.

Not so long ago a carefully-packed box came in from Hungary. It was found to contain just a long loaf of rye bread. As she stopped to appraise this box, the first woman customs appraiser hesitated, then called for a knife, hacked off a crusty end—and drew forth a bottle of a beverage not legally sold in America.

At Eastertime a big chocolate egg came in from Paris. Again "woman's instinct" triumphed and the lady customs appraiser opened the egg and took out a nice big diamond.

But sniffing out smugglers is only a side line to a customs appraiser.

It means that the appraiser must know the standard average market price at time of purchase of everything imaginable. One mail's imports may include an antique Chinese shawl embroidered with the literal lives of hundreds of Chinese women, surgical instruments from Vienna, pigeon timers from England, gloves and pottery from Paris, pottery from Copenhagen, cookies from Japan, shoes from Germany, raincoats from Scotland, artificial flowers from Italy, anything imaginable.

NOT GUESS WORK

"Appraising," Miss Cline explains, "is not guess work. It is black and white figures, received on the market price of every imaginable article sold in every imaginable place every day of the year.

"The human interest stories which one mail tells make the job constantly fascinating," added Miss Cline, hesitating before a battered little pasteboard box with some red knitted wristlets and a little scrawled paper which, translated, read, "All the love in the world on your birthday from your mother, who prays God she may come to you soon."

As Judge Cline of a Federal Customs Court, Miss Cline's work will be quite different. She will sit on protest cases brought by purchasers claiming that their goods have been misclassified or appeal cases involving value placed upon merchandise.

For instance, as Miss Cline explained, dental mirrors might be classed as mirrors rather than dental instruments, but the court has ruled that they are dutiable as dental implements. The judge rules on the class, and there is no redress except appeal to the U. S. Customs Court of Appeals.

NEW JUDGE?

Miss Genevieve Cline, nominated by President Coolidge for judge of federal customs court at New York.

Titian is the name of the great painter known for his portrayal of red-haired women.

BUILD CONCRETE PIER FOR NEW SPUR TRACK

A new concrete pier in the middle of the far east flume of the Fox River Paper company canal on the north side of their mill is the first step in the extension of the company's spur tracks to the rear of the present mill buildings where a new boiler house will be built. The permit was granted by the railroad commission several days ago. Erection of the new boiler house probably will begin within a few weeks.

The new hydro-electric unit recently installed by the company and operating from the flume east of the canal bridge, was placed in operation about two weeks ago. The unit materially increases the available power for the company mills.
